STATE COURT FOR 2-CENT FARE FEDERAL FOR 3

Railroads Get Secret Government Injunction in Conflict With States.

OLD RATE IS CHARGED

Attorney-General Threatens to Arrest All Agents Who Violate New Law.

FRAUD IS CHARGED

Corporations Get Injunction Day Ahead and Will Fight on Priority Ground.

Attorney-General Hadley obtained from Judge Reynolds of the St. Louis Circuit Court and Circuit Judge Clark at Kansas City temporary restraining orders to compel the railroads of Missouri to obey the 2-cent passenger fare law and the new maximum freight rate statute which went into effect after midnight Friday.

Anticipating the Attorney-General's action, the railroads, through their attorney, Frank Hagerman of Kansas City, went before Federal Judge Mcpherson and obtained a similar injunction, prohibiting the State officials from enforcing these laws, thus bringing the State and Federal courts into direct opposition.

All railroads are charging the old 3-cent rate at Union Station today. At the Frisco general offices it was authoritatively stated that the injunction obtained by the Attorney-General would be disregarded. The price of tickets, it was stated, was still 3 cents a mile.

Attorney-General Hadley told a Post-Dispatch reporter, however, that he had received no notification of the Federal Courts' action and that under the injunction issued by the State Courts it is the duty of the prosecuting officials of the State to indict all railroad officers, agents or employes who fail to enforce the provisions of the new acts.

Question of Priority.

James Hagerman, general counsel for the M., K. & T. Railway, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the natural action on the part of the Katy and other roads, in view of Attorney-General Hadley's injunctions in the State courts, would be to call the attention of the Federal courts to the priority of their temporary injunction to restrain the State officials from enforcing the 2-cent law.

In order to circumvent the plans of the great Missouri railroad combination, representing a capital of $350,000,000, Attorney-General Hadley made a flying visit to St. Louis Thursday night to present his application to Judge Reynolds at his home, 5567 Von Versen avenue.

Judge Reynolds was informed by the Attorney-General that the emergency justified the immediate issuance of an injunction.

Get Papers at Breakfast.

Judge Reynolds assented to the Attorney-General's request and arranged to have copies of the restraining orders served on the railroad officials before they reached their breakfast table today.

The order issued by Judge Reynolds is directed against the Wabash, Iron Mountain, Cotton Belt, St. Louis, Kansas City & Colorado, Missouri Pacific, Missouri, Kansas & Texas and St. Louis-Hannibal roads.

Attorney-General Hadley said to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Southern Hotel Friday morning:

"The railroad lawyers are sharp and they knew just what the Governor meant when he told of the preparations being made by the Attorney-General's office to make the 2-cent fare law effective.

"But notwithstanding what the Governor said," continued the Attorney-General, "the railroads had no right to violate the agreement they made with the State not to file application for an injunction until today.

"Just what action the railroad companies took before Judge McPherson yesterday, I do not know. The only notice I have received from them was that notifying me of the contemplated injunction proceedings.

Charge of Fraud.

"If the railroads did obtain an injunction from Judge McPherson yesterday, then I intend to go into court and charge them with fraud in their representations to the Attorney-General's office.

"I understand the railroad injunction is directed against myself and the Board of Railroad Commissioners.

"We can in no sense be made defendants. These are criminal statutes and must be enforced by the prosecuting authorities.

"In every county of this State the railroads can be indicted if they fail to comply with the provisions of the 2-cent fare law. They will also be in contempt of the State courts."

"I realize that this is a pretty big fight, but the State is prepared to contest it to the finish. And when it comes to

TAKES TRIP THROUGH AIR FROM ANCIENT GUN

Youngster at Play Falls Victim to Weapon Once Owned by the Late P. T. Barnum.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., June 14.—Henry Remsen, 11, was playing hide and seek today and hid in one of the old guns, or "mortars," once owned by P. T. Barnum, the showman.

He had hardly gotten himself comfortably fixed when he suddenly shot up in the air and landed in an apple tree nearby. He was bruised, but not seriously hurt.

The mortar responsible for Remsen's flight was one which Barnum used in his old "cannon ball" act, in which a young woman was shot to the top of the canvas and there caught in a net.

Remsen went through the act, all except the net, having accidentally touched the powerful spring of the "gun."

BIG SLUMP IN LIVESTOCK

Prices Drop 40 Cents but Don't Affect Meat.

While prices of dressed beef are soaring skyward, the bottom is falling out of the prices of livestock.

At the National Stock Yards in East St. Louis the price of hogs has dropped 40 cents on 100 pounds, the top price Thursday being $6 a 100 pounds. Spring lamb prices have fallen $2 on each 100 pounds. Cows and heifers have declined 50 cents on the 100 pounds.

Packers still decline to purchase heifers unless subject to post-mortem examination, and the commission men still refuse to sell unless the packers take the stock on hoof subject to risks. There is an advance of from 4 to 6 cents on choice stew meat.

JEALOUS, SHE HURLS ACID; TWO WOMEN BADLY BURNED

Kansas City Woman Meant to Disfigure Her Rival and Struck Another.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—Acid thrown by Jessie Richardson seriously burned two other women last night. Both will recover, but their faces are marred for life.

Jealousy prompted Jessie Richardson to hide in a doorway with a cup of carbolic acid. She had heard an acquaintance say she is not as pretty as Lillian Prosse, who lives in the same house. Hearing footsteps in the hall, the Richardson woman threw the acid, but the approaching woman was not Lillian Prosse. Nellie Cole received the contents of the acid cup in the face. Hearing a scream in the hall, the Prosse woman rushed out and her face was severely burned by the acid.

The Cole woman was taken to the Emergency Hospital for treatment. Lillian Prosse was too severely injured to be removed and a doctor was called. Jessie Richardson was arrested.

PRIEST TELLS GIRLS TO SHUN WOMEN'S CLUBS

Father Conway, in Addressing Graduates, Also Condemns Divorcees.

MUST SEEK CULTURE

Women's Organizations, He Says, Are Only Roundups for Dress Display.

"Women's social clubs are to blame for much of our national vulgarity and boldness. The woman's club is a round-up—a good place to exhibit clothes."—Father Conway.

Women's social clubs were the object of scathing criticism in an address delivered by the Rev. Father James J. Conway, S. J., at the annual commencement at the Visitation Academy, before a large gathering including many of the wealthiest and most aristocratic women of St. Louis, Thursday evening.

Such clubs are to blame, Father Conway declared, for much of the national vulgarity and boldness which he says have accompanied frequent divorces. Ostracism of divorcees was urged as one means of checking the tendency to disregard the sanctity of home and marriage.

Two hundred women, graduates of the Academy, members of its Alumnae Association, women conspicuous in fashionable clubs of the city, and the teachers of the institution heard Father Conway's remarks. Notwithstanding the warmth and vigor of his denunciation Father Conway was loudly applauded.

Condemns Clubs.

"Turn your backs on social clubs and their devotees," Father Conway exclaimed. "The woman's club is a round-up, a good enough place to exhibit clothes, but the homes of clubwomen are continually falling to pieces.

"I want to give some objective reasons for the existence of sororities such as the Alumnae Association of this academy. The mere feature of reunion and allegiance to alma mater will not do, although there is much in fellowship to cause associations to endure.

"To associate for financial motives only, while laudable, would in the end prove a handicap on the presence of desirable members. The activity of a sorority ought to build first upon the principles which the members represent and upon which their education has been constructed—the principles of Catholic doctrine and morality; union in all things with the jurisdiction and sentiment of the Church.

Divorces Are Unholy.

"Over and above this basis of existence there is today a call upon the part of all associations of Christian women to show a determined and organized purpose to put down by the strength of their united censure the unholy practice of divorce, which is sapping the foundations, not merely of religion and the family, but likewise of society and the State.

"Nobody within the pale of Christianity has a greater power or wider or more vital interest in the ostracism from the family and of society of the bold and growing votaries of divorce.

"Divorce is the unholy and dangerous evil of American life. Set your face and your hand against it. Ignore, ostracise and avoid everyone who even defends the practice.

"In this connection and as an evil in a remote way allied to the repulsive immorality of divorce is the promotion of a public vulgarity and commoness which are lowering the dignity and nobility of women. We see it in the public journals and in the prominence given the most sacred features of individual and domestic privacy.

Culture, Not Notoriety.

"We must distinguish culture from notoriety. Strive to be accomplished, refined, delicate, Christian, rather than merely fashionable or polished. The educated woman, with pure heart and mind, does not require raiment. The merely fashionable woman may get along with a little Delsarte and a gaudy gown; the merely educated woman is too often a twisted crank.

"I must say here that our women's social clubs are largely to blame for the national vulgarity and boldness. There are laudable features in club life, I admit, but when this life degenerates into a mere sensual conviviality, to say the least about it, there can be but one result on men and women. It will invade the activities of the home and the domestic virtues and will dull the finer senses of the man or woman of culture, not to speak of the irregularities, the expenses, the temptations which lead to every feature of moral weakness and in many cases to positive depravity."

Father Conway praised the friendships of girls' school days, and said that they should be continued through life.

At the luncheon in the refectory, following the address, the graduates of this year were guests of honor. Miss Lucy Biggins was toastmistress. Father D. S. Phelan spoke facetiously, saying that, while the world needed good women, there were enough nuns in the world now.

TAFT COLLAPSES AT FORT SNELLING; IS SERIOUSLY ILL

ENRAGED BY A GESTURE OF SHAME, SHOT HER DIVORCED HUSBAND'S MOTHER NEAR HEART

MRS. ANNIE NATOLI.

TELEPHONE WIRES ENTANGLE CUPID

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALVESTON, Tex., June 14.—If the higher courts of Texas affirm the decision of the Nolan County Court that a telephone marriage is not a legal marriage, there will be a rush of remarriages in Texas, where the telephone fad had been quite popular.

The estate of the late Thomas Wemberley, wealthy ranchman, which is valued at more than $250,000, is tied up on this legal question.

Upon his death, several months ago, a contest of the will was made by certain relatives, and the question of the legality of the marriage was raised by counsel for relatives of the dead ranchman.

This question was fought upon every ground, even to the extent of declaring the parties lawfully man and wife, by reason of having lived together 15 years, regardless of the marriage ceremony, but the court held that a marriage ceremony to be legal must be solemnized by a minister or judge or other authority in the presence of the contracting parties and witnesses, all of whom shall attest the ceremony.

A romantic courtship of the Wemberleys, who were prominent in Western Texas, was terminated in a telephone ceremony, in which the bride and bridegroom responded to the justice who married them over a telephone wire, 20 miles apart.

There have been several hundred telephone marriages in Texas, and a few years ago an Eastern Texas judge refused to recognize a man and woman as man and wife in a court proceeding because they had been married by long distance telephone.

They were remarried by a minister, and the law was not given a test.

SHOOTS MOTHER-IN-LAW FOR GESTURE OF SHAME

Divorced Husband's Parent Covered Her Face With Her Hands, an Italian Custom, and Woman in Rage Wounds Her Near Heart.

Angered by a gesture which in Italy signifies shame, Annie Natoli, 23 years old, shot Mrs. Annie Lobuono, aged 55, mother of her divorced husband, at the older woman's home, 719 Wash street, Friday morning.

The bullet penetrated the right breast, and came out under the right arm, without, it is believed, inflicting a fatal wound. Mrs. Lobuono refused to allow herself to be removed in an ambulance. Her former daughter-in-law was taken to the Carr Street Police Station.

The women lived two doors apart. Annie Natoli residing with her mother at number 715. Bad feeling has existed between the two since Annie Natoli was divorced from Antonio Lobuono two years ago.

The divorce, Annie Natoli said after the shooting, was caused by letters which a former sweetheart wrote her. She answered two, then told the man he must not write any more. For revenge, he showed her husband the letters she had written, and Lobuono left her.

When Mrs. Lobuono, in her back yard, saw Annie Natoli on the back porch nearby Friday morning, she turned her face toward her, then placed her hands over her features, covering eyes, nose and mouth. This means in Italy "You ought to be ashamed to look at me."

The younger woman, enraged at the insult, ran into her house and took a revolver from under the pillow. Going near Mrs. Lobuono, she fired once on her.

Policemen had no trouble in arresting Annie Natoli. She was in great distress, and cried in Italian, "God forgive me! My temper got the better of me!"

Mrs. Lobuono fought resolutely to prevent the policemen from placing her in an ambulance, and for fear of injuring her, they had to abandon the attempt and leave her in her home.

Annie Natoli's mother picked the revolver from under the bed, where Annie had thrown it, and gave it to the policemen.

Mother, Alone, Swooned.

After the policeman had taken her daughter away, Mrs. Natoli, who is the wife of a Third street commission dealer, swooned. Neighbors found her little grandchild, 2-year-old Jennie Lobuono, playing near her unconscious form.

Mrs. Lobuono, who recently resided at 719 Carr street, recently went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mascarri, on Wash street. Since that time neighbors who knew of her former relationship to Annie Natoli, and of the women's recent enmity, have feared a clash.

New Use for Spoiled Photos.

"Photographers too often have prints which through some cause or other are partly spoiled. Well," suggests Camera, "why not take some of these half-spoiled prints and cut out the good parts and paste them on the under side of the same kind of a dish used for the cigar bands? The writer has one on which he has pasted some sixty heads of himself and wife, all cut from prints that were spotted or spoiled in some other way."

EARTHQUAKES ARE CAUSED BY LEAKAGE OF THE OCEAN

Missouri Astronomer Says San Francisco Is Safe for Another Century.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MONTGOMERY CITY, Mo., June 14.—Dr. Thomas Jefferson Jackson See, astronomer of the United States Naval Observatory at Mare Island, Cal., now in this city visiting his old boyhood home, says he has discovered the one common cause of earthquakes—the leakage of the ocean bottom, which gives rise to steam beneath the earth's crust.

He also points out that the chief danger of these agitations is along the sea coast.

"It seems to be clearly proved," said Dr. See, "that the earth is not contracting, but that the effects of the cooling of the globe are insensible. The earth may be slightly expanding. San Francisco is not likely to have another earthquake in a hundred years."

Lads Who Threatened to Drown Themselves Are Alive and Safe in Ilasco, Mo.

A note scrawled by two boys on the back of a tomato can wrapper telling of their suicide pact was found in a whisky bottle cast up by the river drift Friday morning at the United States dock at the foot of Arsenal street. The note was signed by Worthy Hollenbeck and Evert McMullen and was dated at Olasco, Mo.

Worthy is safe at work at the Atlas Portland Cement Co.'s plant at Olasco, a small village on the Mississippi in Ralls County, a few miles south of Hannibal. Evert is at his home there.

SITS ON SULPHURIC ACID BOTTLE

Thomas Nolan's Error Takes Him to Hospital Painfully Burned.

A bottle of sulphuric acid, which he thought was whisky, became uncorked in the hip pocket of Thomas Nolan and now he is minus 64 squares inches of skin whose value he didn't appreciate until he lost it. Nolan works for a contractor who is building settling basins at the Waterworks. In the bunkroom he found a bottle containing a brownish liquid. It didn't seem to belong to anybody in particular, so he slipped it in his pocket.

Half an hour later, while sitting in a saloon near the camp Nolan sounded a cry of pain. As he jumped to his feet the other customers saw that his trousers were smoking. They debated as to whether they should turn in a fire alarm or call an ambulance. The latter proposition prevailed. At the City Hospital it is said that Nolan will be unable to sit on a jury or anything for a long time.

HIP ATTACKED BY 20 JEALOUS MEN OF HARDIN

Residents of Illinois Town Bombard the Good Craft Zeeland.

WINDOWS ARE BROKEN

Illinoisans Angered at Attentions Other Yachtsmen Paid to Girls.

The good ship Zeeland, a 90-foot yacht owned by Mayor H. B. Rice of Houston, Tex., after a peaceful cruise from New York, was bombarded at Hardin, Calhoun County, Ill., 90 miles north of St. Louis on the Illinois River. The sins of other pleasure yachts were visited upon the Texas craft because of a feud between Hardin citizens and yachtsmen who land at the town, go ashore and steal the pretty girls of Hardin from the native swains.

With broken windows and battered upper works the yacht lies at Russell Gardner's private wharf at the foot of Spruce street. Jack O'Neil, the skipper, and J. W. Leary, the engineer, are repairing the damage done by Hardin citizens, while Edwin Larendon, the only passenger, is lying low and nursing his nerves which were upset by the bombardment. Larendon, wealthy buggy dealer of Houston, is traveling for his health, which was injured by overwork.

O'Neil, Leary and Larendon say that they did not go ashore at Hardin. They landed there at 7 p. m. Wednesday and the officers on watch reported that all was well.

Attacked at 3 A. M.

"We all turned in early," said Leary Friday. "About 3 a. m. there was a great noise on shore. We heard men shouting and one of them said: 'Let 'em have it!'

"In an instant a shower of stones struck the boat. One of them crashed through the window of Mr. Larendon's cabin. We peeped through the portholes and saw 20 men standing on the river front 20 feet from the yacht. They were all armed with big round boulders. One of them would give the command and they would all hurl the stones at the same time.

"Larendon poked his head out of one of the hatches. A stone went singing through the air and he ducked.

"The bombardment was so heavy and continuous that we did not dare go on deck. We carry rifles and shotguns, but we have no cannon aboard. Capt. O'Neil thought of opening fire, but we held a council of war and decided that it was better not to do so. We feared that we would cause a riot and the crowd would wreck the boat.

Bombarded With Boulders.

"They pelted us with stones 15 minutes and then went away. I don't know why they had it in for us, but in the morning I was told there is a war on between the people of Hardin and the yachtsmen, especially those who run up the Illinois River from Alton and St. Louis. Some of these rich fellows who own yachts go up in the town in their swell uniforms, I am told, and they have no difficulty in becoming acquainted with the pretty girls of Hardin. Petticoats are very attractive after you have been out on a long cruise and the girls can't resist the uniforms.

"There was nobody at the Hardin wharf when we pulled out Thursday morning and our trip to St. Louis was uneventful.

"On Lake Michigan as we were near Chicago, we encountered a heavy storm. Mr. Larendon was somewhat frightened, but we knew that the yacht was seaworthy. We were tossed about a good deal, but we got through it all right."

The boat was purchased for Mayor Rice by Leary in New York last December, but the weather was not then favorable for taking it to the Gulf. The present cruise commenced May 17. Larendon, who was then in New York, and his friend, Mayor Rice, for personal reasons to return home on the yacht. The Zeeland departed from St. Louis Friday for New Orleans. From there it will cross the Gulf of Mexico and wind at Rice's summer home at Seabrook, Tex.

Providing for the levy of special taxes against railroads.

THUNDER SHIELDS SAFE ROBBERS

Burglar Blows Postoffice Strong Box at Shelbina, Mo., Getting $150 and Stamps.

While a thunder storm, accompanied by a hard rain and vivid lightning, was passing over Shelbina, Mo., safeblowers broke into the little postoffice and wrecked the safe with explosives at 1:30 a. m. Friday. They stole about $150 in cash and about $450 in stamps. The report was heard all over town, but little attention was paid to it on account of the bad weather. Nobody went to investigate.

The postoffice is in a brick building on the business street of the town. The iron safe in which the money and stamps were kept was in ruins when Postmaster J. L. Fields reached there at his usual hour in the morning. The front and bottom of the safe were blown to fragments. Postmaster Fields telegraphed to Inspector Fulton at St. Louis. There is no clew to who the robbers were.

GIRL TAKES CHLOROFORM TO MEND BROKEN HEART

Mother Had Objected to the Visits of Sweetheart Because of Her Age.

Gertrude Wolf of Alton wanted to be a bride at 16. Her mother wouldn't let her, and Gertrude just knew she didn't look old enough to fool the Marriage License Clerk.

Worst of all, her mother told her beau he mustn't come to see her any more until she was 18. Two years was longer than Gertrude could trust him to wait for her, even if she could have waited that long for him. And she was very sure she couldn't.

There was one way out of it, for a while, anyway. Gertrude left home and went to live with her aunt, Mrs. Sarah Blake, at 602 Belle street. Aunt Sarah liked the young man, and didn't see why he shouldn't come to see Gertrude. He called three or four evenings.

Then Mrs. Wolf called. She had learned of Gertrude's little strategy.

"He's a right nice young man," said Mrs. Blake in defending her conduct to the irate mother.

Mrs. Wolf deigned no reply to Mrs. Blake. To her daughter she said only, "You'll come home, young lady."

She went home, leaving orders to Gertrude to follow as soon as she had packed her things.

Gertrude began to pack. Then she changed her mind and went to the drug store. She has not told anyone just what she bought there, but the fluid she mixed up and drank after she got back to her aunt's was mostly chloroform. Physicians worked over her Thursday and brought her out of danger. She is recovering at her aunt's house, with the mother's edict for her return home still unmodified.

No other St. Louis evening newspaper can get Associated Press dispatches.

NEAR-HERO GOES TO AID OF WOMAN IN DISTRESS

She Was Insane Patient Struggling With Policeman and Man Is Arrested.

A near-hero went to the rescue of a woman patient who had escaped from St. Vincent's Asylum and who was struggling in the grasp of a policeman, sent to take her into custody, at the corner of King's highway and McPherson avenue, Thursday afternoon. The woman had just left the Usona Hotel.

Policeman Hurt was engaged in a struggle with the patient, who was young and tastefully dressed. She asserted that the policeman was intoxicated and appealed to a young man passing, for assistance. Gallantly the near-hero rushed to the rescue. He intimated that he would use his umbrella as a weapon unless the policeman "unhanded" the fair unfortunate. There was nothing else for the policeman to do, so he arrested the near-hero and took him in the wagon with the woman to the Deer Street Police Station.

The young man gave the name Richardson and said his address was 5264 McPherson avenue. He was not known at that address, but a woman at 5264 McPherson said he was James Richardson, her brother, salesman for a dry goods house. At the dry goods house it was denied that he was in the firm's employ.

New Witness Describes How Orchard Tried to Kill Bradley.

POSTMASTER TESTIFIES

Orchard Got $100 by Mail From Man Supposed to Be Moyer.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

BOISE, Idaho, June 14.—L. B. Guibbinni, the San Francisco groceryman who introduced Harry Orchard, then known as "Barry," to the servants in the Bradley household, was the first witness in the Haywood trial today. He said Orchard came to his store and hung around and spent considerable money. Orchard asked questions about the Bradley household, asked to be introduced to the servants, and asked Guibbinni to get him a room in the neighborhood.

Guibbinni saw Orchard moving his luggage the night before the Bradley house was dynamited. He also saw the poisoned milk.

Guibbinni described the result of the bomb Orchard placed at the front door leading to the Bradley apartments in Washington street. The whole front of the house was blown out. Guibbinni said he saw Orchard at his store the day the explosion occurred.

The defense renewed the tactics of yesterday by moving to strike out the testimony of the witness as not connecting Haywood with the offense charged. The motion was overruled.

Attorney Darrow, on cross-examination, devoted himself to learning the conditions under which the witness was brought to him and told him he had to come to Boise to testify. Guibbinni said the detectives came to him and told him there was no use "trying to dodge it."

"So they were going to kidnap you? commented Darrow.

"No, sir," said the witness, "they just told me I had to come."

Guibbinni got $200 to cover the expenses of the trip. He told the detectives that he knew of the case and was told to tell the truth.

Guibbinni said Orchard told him he lived by gambling at night. He slept during the day time. The witness did not know whether he discussed the Bradley explosion direct with Orchard or not. He talked about it with everyone who came in.

Frisco Postmaster Called.

The prosecution called as the next witness Hull McClaughry, the Assistant Postmaster at San Francisco, who was interrogated as to a registered letter Orchard said he received from Pettibone while in San Francisco.

Orchard said he was going by the name of "John Dempsey" at the time and Pettibone used the name of "J. Wolff" in transmitting the letter, which contained $100.

ACCUSER PAYS FINE OF $3

Tables Turned on East St. Louis Woman Prosecutor.

Mrs. Bertha Heimann of East St. Louis went to Belleville to prosecute a charge of disturbing the peace against Julia Roberts and Josie Reagan. Before she left the courtroom she was defendant in a similar case and paid a fine of $3 and costs.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Heimann swore out warrants against Julia Roberts and Josie Reagan. Their cases were heard Thursday by Justice Wangelin, who discharged Miss Reagan and imposed a fine of $1 and costs on Mrs. Roberts.

The latter, to get even, swore out a warrant against Mrs. Heimann before she left the courtroom. Mrs. Heimann entered a plea of guilty and paid the fine of $3 and costs that was imposed. A warrant was also issued against Louis Heimann, husband of Bertha Heimann. His case will be tried in Justice Wangelin's court June 21.

THE NEW REMEDY

Take It Now that Vacation Days are Fast Approaching.

Thousands of men and women are anxiously looking forward to the vacation days that come in June, July and August—not so much for the pleasure or enjoyment as for the chance of getting rid of their ill health.

To thoroughly drive away troubles of the stomach most people think they have to make a business of it with dieting, exercise, and perhaps a vacation.

But Mi-o-na stomach tablets taken with regularity, in a very few days will drive away indigestion, dizzy spells, distress after eating, headaches, sleeplessness, and the many other symptoms of bad digestion and sluggishness of the digestive organs that keep people from enjoying themselves.

Day after day, at work behind desks or in the factory with poor sunlight and air, soon results in sluggishness of the entire physical and mental apparatus. The first slight symptoms of indigestion can be easily cured, but when they are allowed to increase without any help, then the stomach complaints become hard to shake off.

Strengthen the whole digestive system with Mi-o-na and you will soon find that both stomach and bowels do their work as they should.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50-cent box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents. Booth's Miona Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

WENT SWIMMING WITH RICH WIDOW, TRIED TO KILL HER

Williams Got Mrs. Gibbons' $61,000, but the Police Finally Got Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 14.—According to the written confession of Rufus Williams of Columbia, S. C., who was arrested here last night as he was taking a train, after he had tried to kill Mrs. Sallie Gibbons, the rich widow of a Columbia (S. C.) banker, and stolen $61,000 in cash from her, the couple had run away together, Williams leaving a wife and several children.

Mrs. Gibbons, who is 50 years old, is in the hospital, suffering from a wound on the head where Williams hit her with a club.

The couple came to San Antonio yesterday morning, on their way to California. Williams says he induced her to take a drive, and they went into the country. Coming to a little stream, she suggested that they take a bath, and he acceded. He says he told her he knew he was doing wrong, and that he was going back to his wife and children. He says she told him he was the only man she had ever loved, and that she would kill him if he left her. He says he picked up a stick and hit her on the head. She fell into the edge of the stream. He drove away with the money and returned to San Antonio.

When Mrs. Gibbons partially recovered her senses she managed to make her way to a farmhouse and was brought to the city. After she arrived at the hospital she accused Williams and he was arrested. All the money was recovered. He has made a full confession and is being held on a charge of robbery by assault with firearms, which is capital offense.

POLICE IN CHARGE OF RUSSIAN DUMA

Premier Demands Expulsion of All Members of Social Democratic Faction.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—Premier Stolypin today demanded that the lower house of Parliament exclude from the house all the members of the Social Democratic faction, numbering 55, and sanction the arrest of 16 of their leaders, including MM. Alexinsky, Tzeretelli, Dzhaparidze and Ozel, on the charge of entering into a conspiracy to overthrow the Government and establish a democratic republic.

Continuing, the Premier announced that unless the house immediately yielded, Parliament would be dissolved.

The press and public galleries were cleared, the police and troops took possession of the entrances to the Parliament building and the house went into secret session and debeated the question raised by the Premier.

It is considered almost certain that his demands will be rejected.

WOOD BLOCK CURE FOR NOISE

New Pavement to Be Tried Near the Merchants' Exchange.

The wood block pavement cure for downtown noise is to be tried, beginning with the sections of Third and Pine streets adjoining the Merchants' Exchange Building.

The Board of Public Improvements Friday approved an ordinance, to be submitted to the Municipal Assembly, for the reconstruction of Third street, from Pine to Chestnut, and of Pine street, from Third to Fourth, with creosoted wood blocks.

Street Commissioner Travilla said that the material was chosen on request of members of the Merchants' Exchange and occupants of offices in that and adjoining buildings. If the new material proves satisfactory it will be introduced on other downtown streets.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER

SPRING AILMENTS

A man and a house need the same thing in spring—a good cleaning out.

MR. A. W. HULL.

A certain amount of impurities have gathered in both during the winter. I am no authority for house cleaning. So far as the man is concerned Cooper's New Discovery taken for two weeks will bring the desired result. It will positively do these three things—clean out the stomach and bowels, tone up the system generally and bring back the snap to body and mind that now seem dull and worn out. Try it and see if you won't be as pleased as Mr. Hull, whose letter I quote below:

"I suffered a general breaking down of the system. Had no appetite, poor digestion and was constipated. I lost ambition and took no interest in anything. Nothing I could do seemed to give me relief until upon a friend's advice I began to use Cooper's New Discovery. It helped me from the start. Now I am able to do as much work as the next one and I enjoy it. I have a hearty appetite and am stronger and better every way. Your New Discovery medicine is certainly the best tonic and system builder I have ever known." A. W. Hull, 142 Porter St., Detroit, Mich.

These are the famous medicines with which Mr. Cooper recently created such a stir in Chicago. His demonstrations there attracted wide attention. His remedies are sold in St. Louis by all druggists.

DEFIES BLACK HAND IN HOME LIKE FORTRESS

Frank Bova Aroused by Receipt of Third Letter.

$1000 IS DEMANDED

Fruit Dealer Says He'll Never Pay It and Buys Firearms.

If Frank Bova, an East St. Louis fruit dealer who has been threatened in "black-hand letters," is assassinated the assassins will have to look sharp. Loaded revolvers lie in many a nook and cranny of the Bova home and store. They are an important part of Bova's bedroom furniture. He speaks of them confidently and says he is prepared for any "black hand" emissary whomsoever.

"They might shoot me in the back or stick a knife in me from behind," said he, "but I think my eyes are open. I defy any of them to come to my house or my store."

Bova is of the medium height, but possesses broad, muscular shoulders and an arm like a prizefighter. His shirt is worn open and folded back at the collar, revealing a short, thick neck of giantesque proportions. His complexion is dark, his crown is armost bare of hair and his black eyes look straight into the face of whomever he converses with.

Not Too Busy to Fight.

"I'm too busy to bother with those fellows," says he, "but if they come here I'll give 'em a hot reception."

Within the past ten days Bova has received three threatening letters through the mail. They have been postmarked St. Louis. The first commanded him to wear a straw hat, a black handkerchief round his neck, a coat over his arm and carry $1000 in a handbag. Attired thus, he was to repair at 8 a. m. on June 4 to Hodlamont, where he would meet the man who was to receive the money.

This man first was to ask him for a match, then to ask him if he were a dentist. When Bova replied in the affirmative the man was to suggest his pulling a tooth, whereupon Bova was to hand over the $1000.

Guarded by two East St. Louis and two St. Louis detectives, Bova made the trip as directed but met no one. A few days later he got another letter complaining of his failure to carry out instructions. Then the facts were published in the Post-Dispatch. The third letter, which arrived Wednesday afternoon, threatened him with death for giving the matter publicity.

Ha! Ha! You Villain!

All three of the letters were in Italian. The third and last concluded thus, as translated: "So let us lose not too much time and this pin you find stuck on the cross will be the stiletto that will pierce your heart. Ha! ha! you villian!"

Just below this thrilling conclusion was a rudely drawn cross, made with blood. A pin pierced the paper where the cross was drawn, symbolic of the stiletto which had been prepared for Bova.

When the postman delivered this last startling missive Bova turned it over to the police as he had done its predecessors. The detectives redoubled the watchfulness and Bova looked to the loading of his weapons.

"It is no joke, O, no," he said Thursday. "Look, do you think a man would make a joke like that?"

He pointed to the bloody cross. He speaks English grammatically, but with a marked Italian accent.

"No, they mean business, those fellows, but they cannot do anything to me," he continued, "but I wish the police would catch them and hang them on a pole in front of my store. It would be a good lesson."

Recently Out of Debt.

Bova came to this country 22 years ago, and for the last nine years has lived in East St. Louis. His store is at 310 Broadway, and his residence is in the rooms above. This is all the property he owns, he says, and he only lifted the mortgage from it by the last payment on his debt a month ago.

"The newspaper did not treat me right, saying I had money," said he. "I work from 6 in the morning until about midnight every day. I work hard. See how I am dressed. I can't wear fine clothes. I can't take a day off to have a good time. I've got to work all the time. I've got six children, a wife and my wife's father and mother to take care of. Do you think I have any thousand dollars to give away to rascals? Me, a busy man, with a family! No matter how much money a man's got, not even if he's a millionaire, he is not going to give away money that way."

Bova denies that he has any enemies. He says he never in his life had a fight, and that he never intentionally broke the law.

THIS CHURCH HAS A NURSERY

Mothers Invited to Attend and Bring Their Little Babies.

Babies will be welcomed at an unusual service which will be held at the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church, Shaw and Tower Grove avenues, next Sunday. The idea originated with the Rev. Josephus Stephan, the pastor.

So many mothers complain that they cannot go to church because of the care which they must give to their babies that the Rev. Stephan announced that at next Sunday's services a specially fitted temporary nursery will be provided for all the babies who are brought to the church.

A committee consisting of Mrs. A. C. Badger, Mrs. C. A. Evans and Mrs. E. N. Norrick will care for the babies.

DR. BOND STILL HEDGED ABOUT BY YARDS OF TAPE

To See Our Health Commissioner Present Your Card, Then Wait Until Office Force Makes Three Distinct Passes.

First you enter the outer office, walking softly and speaking in low tones, and present your card. Then you sit down outside the railing. A man takes your card and gives it to a boy. You wait. The man sits down at his desk again. The boy goes through the next room into another. You keep on waiting. After awhile the boy comes out and tells you whether you will be admitted or not.

What is all this, you ask—rules for being presented at the court of St. James or the inner apartments of the Vatican? Oh, no. Just what you have to do to see Dr. H. Wheeler Bond, Health Commissioner of St. Louis.

Dr. Bond established the card and page system several weeks ago. The House of Delegates passed a resolution about seclusion and inaccessibility of certain public officials. The resolution called such methods undemocratic, and savoring of the methods of an office-holding aristocracy.

Commissioner Bond relaxed the rule. The Council referred the resolution to a committee, the committee delayed reporting it, and Friday visitors to the office were notified that the rule was in ful. force again. Those who complained were informed that it applied to heads of city institutions and other subordinates of the commissioner, as well as to the unofficial public.

No other city official has thought it necessary to make himself at all times inaccessible. Mayor Wells, whose office is the only other one not directly open to the public, receives visitors without cards, in the order of their coming, for two or three hours each day.

STATE COURT FOR 2-CENT FARES; U. S. COURTS FOR 3

swearing out injunctions the State intends to act with the same haste displayed by the railroads."

Rumors of Action.

"Late yesterday afternoon rumors were current that the railroad companies were taking action of some sort, and the Attorney-General proceeded at once to file suits here and to secure restraining orders on them against an abuse by the railroad companies of their franchises by violating the laws of the State.

"Such orders were issued last evening by Judge Reynolds, and have been served on eight of the companies here. Similar orders, I am informed, have been issued by the State court at Kansas City against the other ten companies.

"Up to this time the Attorney-General has had no notice of anything done by the railroad companies at Kansas City from any source except the newspapers."

Arrest Agents.

The railroad representatives are connolds June 24 to show cause why the inmanded to appear before Judge Reyjunction should not be made permanent.

Meanwhile Attorney-General Hadley will instruct the county authorities to arrest all railroad agents who fail to sell tickets at 2 cents a mile. The old rate was 3 cents.

The new maximum freightrate law provides for a uniform reduction of 25 per cent on all classes of commodities.

Under the operation of the two laws the railroads of Missouri estimate a net annual loss of $5,000,000. At least three roads would be forced into bankruptcy, if required to obey the reduced-rate statutes, so the railroad attorney contend.

Special Counsel; Statement.

Attorney Fred W. Lehmann, who has been retained as special counsel to assist Attorney-General Hadley in the passenger and freight-rate legislation, made this statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"I cannot understand the situation at Kansas City. Suits have been pending in the United States Court there for some time to enjoin the Attorney-General and the Railroad Commissioners from enforcing the penalties prescribed by the last General Assembly, the repeal becoming effective today.

"On last Tuesday the railroad companies, through their attorney, served notice on the Attorney-General that they would apply on June 14 (today) to the United States Court for leave to file supplemental bills in the old cases, and for a restraining order based on those bills.

"Rule 57 of Equity Practice provides that whenever a supplemental bill may be necessary to be filed, 'leave to file the same may be granted by any judge of the court on any rule day, upon proper cause shown and due notice to the other party.'

Notice Was Given.

"Notice was given, as I have stated, that application for leave to file the supplemental bill would be made today at 10 o'clock, and the representatives of the State governed themselves accordingly.

"Apparently now, from the reports in the newspapers the railroad companies, in disregard of their formal notice, went into court yesterday and obtained action of some kind, but what it is I do not know. I cannot conceive that they filed their supplemental bills, and without filing them there was nothing to base a restraining order on, unless they filed new suits, and there is no intimation that anything of that sort has been done.

NICARAGUA TO FIGHT SALVADOR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

WASHINGTON, June 14. — What amounts to an actual declaration of war between Nicaragua and Salvador was contained in the reply of President Zelaya to an inquiry from Washington as to his connection with the recent attack and capture of Acajutla.

The answer came to the State Department today in the following cablegram from American Consul General Olivares at Managua, the Nicaraguan capital:

"I am officially informed that in accordance with the Central American Union plan, President Zelaya has dispatched munitions of war and troops in aid of Gen. Alfara, who is the popular Unionist candidate for the President of Salvador. President Figueroa opposes the Union idea."

LENIENCY SHOWN GIRL'S DEFENDER

Youth Who Killed Man for Insulting Sister Gets Two Years' Sentence.

Charles Price, 17 years old, of 624 South Broadway, who stabbed and killed George Alamus, 21 years old, of 627 South Broadway, on May 12, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in Judge Sale's court Friday morning and was sentenced to two years in the State Reformatory at Boonville.

The fight in which Alamus was killed started when Price accused the older man of making insulting remarks about his sister. The evidence was that Alamus knocked Price down several times and that the boy then drew a knife and plunged it into Alamus' breast.

Price is slight in build and Alamus weighed 170 pounds. These facts were called to the attention of Judge Sale, who said, under the circumstances, he was willing to let Price plead guilty to manslaughter.

FRISCO'S MAYOR GOES TO JAIL; BAIL IS DENIED HIM

Judge Dunne Promptly Overrules Motion of the Convicted Bribe-Taker.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—Judge Dunne today denied bail to Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, who last night was found guilty by a jury, of extortion. Upon overruling Schmitz's motion for bond, the Court ordered the Mayor sent to Jail, and the Sheriff immediately conducted the prisoner to a cell.

Judge Dunne will pronounce sentence upon Schmitz June 27. It was chiefly upon the testimony of Abraham Ruef that Schmitz was convicted.

Ruef testified that he divided money extorted from French restaurants with the Mayor, giving him at one time $2500, and on another occasion $1500.

The jury which convicted Schmitz was out one hour and 25 minutes.

NET IS CLOSING ON TEACHER OF CRIME SCHOOL

Boy Pupil's Story of Killing of Policeman Boyce Is Corroborated.

HE RE-ENACTS CRIME

Shows How Pal Rolled Beer Keg Beneath Window to Enter Saloon.

The burglary that lured Policeman Lemuel Boyce to a tragic death on the night of March 31 was dramaticly reenacted by Eddie Williams Thursday afternoon at Chouteau and Compton avenues when he assumed the role of Edward Bartos, professional cracksman, who taught him the trade of crime and whom the 13-year-old pupil accuses of firing the shot that killed Boyce.

Once the artful dodger in Bartos' academy of juvenile crime and now a penitent prisoner in the Industrial School, the boy was taken from that institution to the scene of the robbery and murder, anxious to expiate his part with Bartos in 15 burglaries, by assisting the law to avenge the slaying of the policeman.

"Now, Eddie," said Lieut. Schwartz, who is ferreting out the murder, "you go right ahead and make believe that you are the burglar. Do exactly what he did. I want to see whether you are telling the truth about Bartos and yourself."

"Bartos had a coldchisel," said Eddie. "He went around to the front of the saloon right here." The police followed the negro lad's movements as he walked to the Chouteau avenue front and pointing to a spot on the sidewalk said: "A beer keg was right there."

Stood on Keg to Open Window.

"Bartos turned the keg over and rolled it like this around the corner so that it wouldn't make a noise." Eddie imitated the rolling of the keg, the tips of his fingers touching the imaginary keg to guide its motion. He stopped under the second of three transoms set high in the long side wall of the building on Compton avenue.

"He set the keg up right here," explained the boy. Then his under lip quivered with emotion and he flecked a tear from his eyes with the back of his hand. He realized that he was "snitching" on his man pal and that what he was telling might fasten a halter around the neck of his teacher.

"Stop now and wait," commanded the Lieutenant. He went into the saloon and told William Rehm, the saloon keeper, of what Eddie had done. Rehm said that he had left the keg where the boy indicated in front of the saloon the morning of the burglary and that he found it under the transom where the boy waited to resume his part in the drama.

"He climbed up on the keg," continued Eddie. "He could reach the transom with his hands." The Lieutenant lifted Eddie to the transom.

"Then he used the chisel and busted the window in. Then he pushed it open with his hands," said Eddie, pressing against the widow pane.

Stood Behind Telegraph Pole.

"The window swung in. Then Ed climbed into the place. And I didn't see him no more."

"What were you doing?" questioned the Lieutenant.

"I was 'jiggering' for Ed across the street behind that pole," replied Eddie, pointing to a telegraph pole on the southwest corner, opposite the saloon. Eddie was taken across the street and stood by the pole. The position commanded a clear view of the whole side wall where the burglar had operated.

"What happened after Ed climbed into the transom?" asked the Lieutenant.

"A man stuck his head out of that window and hollered and shot his gun in the air."

Eddie indicated the second upper window immediately over the broken transom through which the burglar had disappeared.

"Wait a minute," said Schwartz, leaving the negro lad and going across the street into the saloon. He asked Rehms which window he had raised to give the alarm that brought Boyce running to meet his death.

"The second window right over the transon where he got in," replied the saloonkeeper. "I fired a shot into the air."

Saw Man Run, Heard Shots.

"Now what happened?" asked Schwartz, returning to the boy.

"After the man fired out of the window Big Ed came out of the front door and ran past me down Chouteau avenue. I looks around the corner quick and I see him cross the street. Then I ducks down Compton. I run toward the railroad tracks. Before I reached the tracks I hears two shots back there. I keeps running across the tracks and down Compton to Locust street."

Eddie said he met Bartos the next morning at 8 o'clock at the Adams residence, 3404 Washington avenue, where Bartos boarded and where the burglar recruited his juvenile class composed of Harry Adams, Walter Manges, Eddie and other boys who have not yet been connected with the systematic course of robbery through which Bartos took his young scholars.

INSERTING THREE STORIES IN TALLEST BUILDING

Remarkable Feat in Construction Work Now Under Way in New York Skyscraper.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—A queer feat in architecture has been begun at the Singer Building, a skyscraper, at Liberty street and Broadway.

Its top is to be sliced off and three extra stories are to be sandwiched in between the seventh and eleventh floors.

The undertaking will be confined to the original corner building, which will be part of the new 41-story structure, the tallest office building in the world.

According to Ernest Flagg, architect, the four top floors and the mansard roof will be removed in sections to the ground.

The eighth, ninth and tenth floors will be replaced section by section.

Tenants on the lower floors will not be disturbed by the operations.

OLD ENEMY OF HOP ALLEY IS SENT TO COAST

Deputy Immigration Inspector Tape Transferred to the Oregon Bureau.

Instructions have been received from Washington by James R. Dunn, in charge of the Bureau of Immigration in St. Louis, for the transfer of Frank H. Tape, Deputy Immigration Inspector under Dunn for three years, to the bureau at Portland, Ore. Tape, a full-blooded Chinese, born of Chinese parents here, has been a terror to Chinamen in and about St. Louis, running down the Celestials who had been smuggled into the United States. His work has spread to other fields, especially in the recent cases of Syrians, afflicted with trachoma.

Makes Many Friends.

While Tape was crusading so vigorously against the Chinese who had no right in the United States, he made many friends.

It was a year ago that Tape discovered the scheme by which Chinese were smuggled into this country and then supplied with forged certificates that had been issued to Chinese dead for years. The name of the Chinese to whom the certificate had been originally issued was erased with acid, the smuggled Celestial's name replaced it and the photograph of the latter replaced the one of the former on the certificate.

The smugglers had stolen a Government seal and a wholesale traffic in Chinese was intercepted by Tape's discovery.

Has Girl Deported.

Tape's most recent work was on the deportation case of Alice Petersen Jensen, who was sent back to Denmark, charged with being in the United States for improper purposes.

Tape's father and mother live in San Francisco, where Tape was born, and are wealthy. His father lost over $80,000 in the Frisco fire.

Tape came to St. Louis as assistant manager of the Chinese concession at the World's Fair. He met Inspector Dunn and was persuaded to enter the Government's employ. He is 30 years old and married, his wife being an American girl. He is breaking up his home at 11 North Sarah street and expects to leave St. Louis next week, stopping to visit his parents on his way to Portland.

In Hop Alley the news that Tape had been transferred was received with joy by the Celestials who fear him more than the police.

CHICAGO PREPARING FOR ANOTHER TEAMSTER STRIKE

Both Packers and Drivers Abandon Efforts at Settlement and Prepare for Trouble.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Both the packers and the teamsters have abandoned hope of averting the threatened big strike, and both sides are preparing for a struggle. Many of the teamsters supposed to be friendly to the packers have come out against them, and have announced that if a strike comes they will refuse to drive.

St. Charles Must Pay $10,695.

The city of St. Charles will have to pay $10,695.83 to Charles A. Stookey, a contractor who built the St. Charles waterworks system in 1903, according to a decision of the United States Court of Appeals. The contract price of the work Stookey did was $84,000, but the city paid only $75,000 because one of the walls of a settling basin fell and the city had to make repairs costing $5667.03. Stookey sued, alleging that the city had changed the original plan of the waterworks system, making it impossible for him to reach bedrock in constructing foundations for the settling basin.

HEALTH REPORT

Shows Two-Thirds of Office Men Are Victims of Dyspepsia.

Recent official health reports make the surprising revelation that sixty per cent of men employed at office work are afflicted to a greater or less degree with dyspepsia.

Commenting on this, one of the head medical advisers of the department says that if dyspepsia or indigestion even in its milder forms is allowed to continue it will in a short time poison the blood from putrefaction of food in the stomach.

This eventually undermines the whole system and the sufferer is prey to almost any disease, especially afflictions of the kidneys and lungs. He advises any one with indications of indigestion, such as bloating, belching and headaches, to relieve it promptly. He says this can be most effectively done by using a digestive and gives the following formula, which he strongly recommends: "Two ounces Essence of Pepsin; three ounces Syrup of Ginger; one ounce Catandir Compound. These to be well mixed and used in doses of from one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal, also at bedtime for the first week."

This being a very simple home remedy, the ingredients obtainable at any well stocked drug store. It is pleasant to take and probably is the most effective formula known to science for restoring the stomach to its normal activity in the secretion of gastric juices.

BAKER'S STORY OF BRIBERY IS TOLD TO JURY

Judge Sale May Hold Guilty Men for Contempt of Court.

INDICTMENTS POSSIBLE

Harry Brolaski Tells of Baker's Presence on His Boat.

Judge Sale, before whom Circuit Attorney Sager has laid the facts developed by the grand jury investigation of the charge that Joseph Baker, an eye-witness to the shooting of former Detective Lee Killian, by "Little Georgie" Williams, had been bribed to leave St. Louis and not testify at the trial of Williams, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that he would be ready to act on the matter either Saturday or Monday.

"I have received the papers in the case from the Circuit Attorney, and will examine them today," said Judge Sale. "I may be ready to take up the matter Saturday, but may not get to it until Monday."

Circuit Attorney Sager has placed before Judge Sale, in the form of affidavits, all of the essential facts that he got from witnesses before the grand jury.

It is understood that Baker's own statement that he received a sum of money, said to be $500, for leaving St. Louis, is the strongest evidence that was obtained. Baker's affidavit, which contains the substance of his statement before the grand jury, is now in Judge Sale's hands.

The Court has the power, if the facts are sufficient, to punish severely for contempt of court any person or persons interfering with witnesses. An attorney may be barred for an offense of this kind.

Indictments Possible.

It is possible that the grand jury may find indictments on the testimony of Baker and Harry Brolaski, a steamboat captain. Brolaski, who was before the grand jury Thursday afternoon, was asked concerning statements alleged to have been made to him by John Gernez, one of Williams' attorneys.

Brolaski at first refused to answer the questions on the ground that Gernez was his attorney and that the communication was privileged, but after being taken before Judge George H. Williams and instructed to answer the questions, he was returned to the grand jury room, where he talked freely. Baker has stated that he received $500 to leave the city and not testify against Williams.

When it was found, during the Williams trial, that Baker had suddenly disappeared, the case was continued by Judge Sale to give Circuit Attorney Sager an opportunity to investigate reports of bribery of the witness. Sager concluded his investigation Thursday with the examination of Brolaski.

Baker Was On Boat.

Baker is said to have been given a job as watchman on Brolaski's boat after he disappeared from the hotel, until he could make arrangements to get out of the city. He was found in Detroit, and brought back to St. Louis.

The questions asked Brolaski in the grand jury room give some idea of the situation. The questions were made a part of Sager's petition to Judge Williams to force the witness to answer. They are:

"Did you ever hear of Baker receiving money from John Gernez, Tom McGrath, George or Frank Williams or any other person?"

"Well, I heard about it through one individual, but as he has been my attorney up to date, I have been advised not to answer."

"Who is your attorney?"

Refused An Answer.

"John Gernez."

"Didn't you say yesterday in the grand jury room that Al Davis was your attorney?"

"Yes, sir. He has been my attorney off and on since 1903. Gernez is also my attorney."

"What did Gernez tell you about Baker being paid money in connection with the case of the State vs. Williams?"

"I refuse to answer that on the same grounds."

Judge Williams informed Brolaski that he must answer these questions. He was again taken before the grand jury and complied with the Court's order.

GIRL DIES IN SUICIDE PACT; OTHER MEMBERS OF THE BAND WEAKEN

Authorities of Allen County, Ohio, Mystified by a Peculiar Case of Self-Destruction.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LIMA, O., June 14.—Veiled in the deepest mystery, the suicide of Miss Marie Botkins, 22, daughter of Isaac Botkins of St. Marys, has started the police and Coroner of Allen County to investigate the report, apparently well founded, that the young woman and her friend, Miss Eunice Swigert, of St. Marys, and her lover had entered into a suicide pact.

Miss Botkins had been a guest of Miss Una Kerr here. A telephone call from St. Marys last night resulted in the discovery of her body.

A man's voice asked to speak to her, and when the Kerr family went to her room they found her dead, with a bottle of carbolic acid by her side.

It is believed that the voice over the telephone had intended to caution her against taking her life. The others in the pact evidently decided at the last moment not to carry out their agreement.

MAN ROBS WOMAN OF $61,000

He Is Arrested and Makes Full Confession in Jail.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 14.—Charged with assaulting and robbing Mrs. Sallie Gibbons of Columbia, S. C., of $61,000, Rufus Williams last night confessed the crime in the County Jail. He was caught yesterday on an eastbound Southern Pacific train on his way to New Orleans.

Mrs. Gibbons and Williams arrived in the city yesterday from the East, the former coming for the purpose of investing in Texas lands. She had 50 $1000 bills and the remainder in gold coin.

Williams obtained a vehicle from a local livery and suggested a drive into the woods. Mrs. Gibbons was struck on the head and an attempt was made to drown her. Williams says he took her money and fled back to this city.

NEW ASSISTANT AT KINDERGARTEN

Miss Olga Eichelberger Appointed to Fill Vacancy Caused by Death.

MISS MORAN NAMED AGAIN

She Has Been Working All Day, but Hereafter Works Only in Forenoons.

Miss Mary McCulloch, supervisor of kindergartens, stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that the appointment of Miss Olga Eichelberger to a position as paid assistant at the Lowell Kindergarten does not mean that she is to replace Miss Moran there.

"Miss Moran has been a paid assistant at the Lowell Kindergarten in the mornings," said Miss McCulloch. "When the kindergarten director there died some time ago, instead of appointing a new director I placed Miss Moran in charge, and she was paid for the afternoon as well as the morning.

"Miss Moran has now been recommissioned as a paid morning assistant and I think she is satisfied."

Miss Moran said she is pleased with her reappointment as paid morning assistant and has no complaint against the Board of Education. It appears that Miss McCulloch demanded an explanation from Miss Moran recently when a story appeared in a local newspaper complaining of the injustice of compelling kindegraten teachers to work a whole day for a half day's pay.

Miss McCulloch says she did not ask Miss Moran for an explanation because she thought she had furnished the information to the newspaper, but because she was the only teacher whose case exactly fitted that described in the publication. Miss McCulloch says Miss Eichelberger was not appointed to injure Miss Moran in any way, but merely because she was entitled to the place.

"Bring Me A Good Cigar"

Recently a State Senator on a dining car asked the waiter to bring him "a cigar." The waiter brought two boxes—one was a Triangle A cigar, and the other an unknown brand.

"Which is the better?" asked the Senator. The waiter recommended the unknown brand. "Why?" the Senator demanded. The waiter grinned. "Boss says that's the one to push," he said.

Wrong Food Makes Invalids

Little Quirks and Ails Are Nature's Mild Requests to Right Some Wrong

One Must Heed the Complaint or

Pay the Penalty

Modern folks have discovered a way to recover—by proper selection of food and drink.

Look carefully into the health of the individual who knows that "coffee don't hurt me" and you are almost sure to find some physical ail or functional disturbances—perhaps muddy complexion, weak eyes, incipient heart failure; kidney, liver or bowel disorders; or some form of weakness that shows plainly enough the cry for relief sent up from some organ of the body.

Dismissal of coffee and change to Postum brings relief and shows clearly that coffee hinders digestion. Failure in digestion means lack of good red blood and therefore a lack of food for the nerve centers. Removal of the cause will allow Nature to right herself, and Postum contains Phosphate of Potash, Albumen, etc., from the field grains which unite to form the delicate gray matter of the nerves throughout the body.

Long-boiling (see directions on package) brings out the rich flavor and snappy coffee taste—free from the nerve-racking drug—caffeine—in coffee.

BRYCE OFF TO HUNT INDIANS WITHOUT A GUN

British Ambassador Will Camp on the Red Men's Trail in Oklahoma.

QUESTIONS REPORTERS

Never Heard of Indians in Politics, but Remembers Tammany Wigwam.

James Bryce, Ambassador from Great Britain to the United States, granted a 10-minute interview to reporters at the home of Robert S. Brookings, 5125 Lindell boulevard, after they had waited 18 hours for the privilege.

During that 10 minutes the British Ambassador adopted the role Li Hung Chang made famous by asking his interviewers more questions than he permitted them to ask him.

The Ambassador, who had been sitting at a small table, arose as the reporters entered at 5 p. m. Thursday, and advanced to meet the reporters, saying: "Gentlemen, I am very glad to see you. I am going to Oklahoma, and I want to know the facts about the trouble the people down there are having with their new Constitution. I know you can tell me."

He was told that the Oklahoma Republicans claimed that the new constitution was in violation of the constitutional guarantee that every State should have a republican form of government because, they allege, it provided for a territorial gerrymander that will insure Democratic control.

"I don't know that," said Mr. Bryce, "but I am going to find out all I can about it when I go down there. A new State is very interesting to me.

"And the Indians are, too. I want to see them and talk to them. You know I am very fond of Indian names—names like Sa-ra-to-ga," the Ambassador accenting each syllable distinctly, "and Sa-ra-nac and Ni-a-ga-ra.

Would Perpetuate Them.

"I like to see them perpetuated, you know, just like I like to see some old Celtic names, like Dover, perpetuated in England. By the way, are there any Indians in Missouri?"

At this question Mr. Brookings smiled while one of the reporters said the idea was prevalent in the East before the World's Fair that Indians could be found on the main streets of St. Louis, while another remarked that Indians of the political variety are still known here.

"I never heard of that," he said, and, after some explanation, he added, "I do not see why men who commit election crimes should be called Indians. I have never heard the name used in this way. The only Indian name I have heard used in connection with elections or politics in America is the 'wigwam' in New York."

Mexican Indians.

From Indians in America, the English Ambassador switched the conversation to Indians in Mexico, remarking that there have been exceptionally intelligent Indians there and that the predecessor of President Diaz —Juarez—was an Indian. Then the Ambassador talked about the dryness of Arizona last time he was there and inquired about the development of irrigation projects there, adding that he understood a large amount of arid land had been reclaimed by irrigation in Utah and finally asking if any irrigation projects had been found necessary in Missouri.

One obliging reporter answered this last question with the assurance that Missouri, instead of needing irrigation, was engaged in draining off the swamps in one corner of the State.

It was the reporters' turn after Mr. Bryce had thus led them all the way around the western half of North America, and they asked how he liked the United States this time and what changes he noted since his last visit. His laconic reply was that the principal change he noted was its "growth." About St. Louis, he hadn't been around enough on this visit to form any marked impression.

Criticises Fair Grounds.

"The World's Fair grounds look like they still need a little fixing up," he said pleasantly, when asked what he thought of them, and then he became enthusiastic on the subject of the small forest of oaks that line either side of the road from the university grounds to the Country Club, along which he had been driven earlier in the day.

"I like to see in cities," he remarked, "not only pretty parks but parks which have a touch of the wild about them, which look like a small section of forest transplanted." Then he told how Vancouver, which is in British Columbia, had set an example to other cities by purchasing in its municipal infancy a peninsula of wild forest land jutting out into the sound at a small cost. Now, he says, it is a magnificent park and a great ornament to the city as well as a source of much pleasure to its residents.

Then came the questions which the Ambassador is asked by every reporter who gets an audience: How about international affairs? The Ambassador was ready.

Politics a Secret.

"All I know about politics," he said slowly and smilingly, as he had often said it before and likely to say it again, "is locked up in a room and I have not the key with me on this trip." To all questions touching the relations of Great Britain with the United States or the United States with any other country he was mum.

"You would not mind saying something about the Irish question, would you?" one reporter asked.

"That is the worst kind of politics," he replied. "I couldn't think of talking about that."

"You are regarded as a friend of Ireland," one interviewer said.

"I must let my record speak for that," he replied.

Man Implicated in Attack on King and Queen to Be Liberated.

"NO THIRD TERM FOR ROOSEVELT

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, professor of English literature in Princeton University, was a passenger on the White Star liner Adriatic, just arrived.

He had been "soaking himself in the atmosphere of the Holy Land," as he expressed it. He spoke of his impressions of Palestine and said a few words about politics and modern literature.

"Do you think that President Roosevelt has raised the tone of public life?" he was asked.

"President Roosevelt is one of the most sincere men I have ever met and he has done a great deal of good. Like most men of intense purpose, he is, perhaps, lacking in stolid self-controlled statesmanship, which is obviously indispensable to his exalted position. But remember, I am a literary man and no politician.

"President Roosevelt's refusal to accept a renomination is sincere and wise. I hope he will not allow re-election to be forced upon him. I should not be surprised if the President made a recommendation as to his successor."

"Will the nominee be Mr. Taft?"

"Perhaps. To a man of our President's vitality and political capacities, retirement will be well-nigh impossible. He needs a stage. The Senate would be an ideal sphere for him. He would be most useful and most influential in that body."

On the good old questions of the Bible and religion Dr. Van Dyke said:

"The Bible is an Oriental book, written for Oriental people. Those persons who would read each word literally would not realize the true meaning intended by the author and would be unable to gather the truth that lies embodied in the images and figures in which the Eastern mind finds its usual expression.

Cannot Expect Accuracy.

"Do not look for accuracy of statement. Definite, precise and mathematical exactitude is totally alien from the Oriental mind.

"The miracles? They seem to me more credible, but less important, than they have ever seemed. I do not care whether the loaves were actually multiplied or whether Jesus called out such a spirit of love and brotherhood among the crowd that no one was in want because all gave what they had."

Ate Others' Picnic Lunch.

Four St. Louis boys out at Normandy park, St. Louis County, for a good time, appeased their hunger by eating from the lunch baskets of pupils of the Arlington School, who were at Normandy for their annual picnic. The boys are being held in the Clayton Jail for a trial Tuesday before Justice Stobie. They are Howard Dodge, 15 years old, 5719 North Market street; Will Gronewald, 14, and John Gronewald, 12 years old, 5971 Kennerly avenue; John Gould, 13 years old, 2518 Clara avenue.

$1 IS GIVEN TO HEINIS FOR HIS LOST LOVE

One Juror Favored Putting It Up as Flag Day Bargain for 99 Cents.

COSTS WITHVERDIC T

Star Boarder Must Pay for Hugging His Landlord's Wife Despite Denials.

After short deliberation the jury that listened to Julius Heinis' suit against F. C. Voepel for $10,000 for alienating his wife's affections decided that the love the defendant had won was a bargain at a dollar and awarded that sum to the husband. One juror was in favor of cutting it down to 99 cents as a flag-day sale. The verdict carries with it the costs of the action which Heinis' erstwhile star boarder will have to pay. Heinis sued for $5000 and said that his wife had refused to kiss him for two years.

In the course of the testimony there was considerable variance between Miss Carrie Cox of 4553 Labadie avenue and Voepel as to what Voepel was doing with his arm while the Veiled Prophet was passing by the shoe store where they stood in the window.

Miss Cox says Voepel was using his arm to hug Mrs. Annie Heinis as far as he could reach. Voepel says he wasn't using it for hugging purposes at all. Miss Cox said that the pair sat on a shoe box while they were waiting and stood on the same box while the Veiled Prophet was passing. Both sitting and standing, she testified, Voepel had his arm around Mrs. Heinis "as far as it would reach."

Talked of the Hugging.

William McDonald, who was with Miss Cox, called her attention to Voepel's arm and they talked about how loving Voepel and Mrs. Heinis were. "They were very affectionate while the lights were dim," she said.

She disclaimed being an expert on affection. She did not think, though, that Mr. Voepel's motive was just to steady Mrs. Heinis on an insecure footing. "I didn't need any steadying," she said. Then she laughed and blushed.

Voepel not only denied that he had had his arm around Mrs. Heinis that night, but declared that he had never had his arm around her in his life.

He denied that he had advised her to get a divorce.

"Do you care whether she does or not?" he was asked.

"I don't care a continental whether she does or not," he said. "It's none of my business."

He denied giving presents to Mrs. Heinis except at Christmas and said that he also gave Mr. Heinis and the little girl Christmas presents.

Ring for Christmas.

He admitted receiving a ring as a Christmas present. "The little girl handed it to me," he said, "in the presence of Heinis and his wife."

He did not know what it cost and did not know that Mrs. Heinis bought it on time payments.

"You know it's a valuable ring, don't you?" he was asked by Attorney Schneiderhahn.

"I don't know," he said. "Here it is." He held up his hand with the ring on his finger.

Heinis testified in rebuttal that he did not object to his wife giving Voepel a knife for a Christmas present, but did not want her to give him a ring. "For a married woman to give a ring to a man looks bad," he said.

GIRL FAINTS IN LAST DANCE

Falls on Steamboat Deck From Exhaustion.

Just as the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" were dying away and the dancers on the steamer City of Providence were whirling about in the final waltz, Nellie Roberts, 19 years old, of 1926 North Grand avenue, one of the merriest of the excursionists, fainted in the arms of her dancing partner, William Rugs of 3918 Garfield avenue.

The music ceased abruptly. Her friends crowded about the girl and men hurried for water to revive her. A rumor started that she had been assaulted.

The boat's gangplank was lowered and policemen rushed aboard. Miss Roberts was taken to the City Dispensary, where she said she had become exhausted from dancing.

The police asked other excursionists who had assaulted Miss Roberts. The story that she had been struck on the head by a watchman on the boat was proven untrue.

Excursion Next Thursday.

The Ladies' Society of the German General Protestant Orphans' Home will give an excursion Thursday, June 20, to Montesano Park. The steamer City of Providence will leave the foot of Olive street at 9:30 a. m. sharp. Dinner will be served for those who do not carry baskets.

PAROCHIAL TEAM WINS FIRST GAME BY 6 TO 5

The narrow margin by which they beat the Field School Thursday afternoon in a neck-and-neck struggle, by a score of 6 to 5, has made the St. Alphonsus team look with anxiety to the second of the final series of games in the Post-Dispatch Public and Parochial School Baseball Leagues Saturday morning.

The game was played on the C. B. C. campus. The two teams were the best school teams in the city sorted out during the season of the parochial and public school baseball leagues.

The Fields started off like winners. Tom Holland, in the box for the parochials, was very wild, and the public school boys began hammering him and walking to the bases easily. But under the encouragement of Capt. Bob Murphy, the St. Alphonsus team held together well and gave splendid support.

Parochial Led in Fifth.

In the fifth inning the parochial team took the lead. Then the Field team made the score 5 to 5. The crowd of several hundred persons watching the game cheered every play.

Each team in the seventh inning was retired in fine style, with no runs. In the eighth inning Capt. Murphy instructed his first man at the bat to bunt.

Two of the bunts were successful and there were men on third and first. The third batter's bunt rolled to the field pitcher easily and he sent it twirling to first. But the St. Alphonsus boy on third had jumped on the bag and Barclay, on first for the Fields, swung the ball in the direction of third base. Pittman was not on his post and the ball went out into the running track around the diamond and the deciding tally was made.

Ninth Inning Best.

In the ninth inning both teams played magnificent ball and the inning was the shortest of the game.

The infield of the St. Alphonsus team played a sort of miniature big league baseball. Their knowledge of the fine points of the game astonished the men in the grandstand. None of the boys over 15 years of age, they played with the headiness of seasoned players.

Bob Murphy on third and Bob Murray on first and Eddie Walsh at short were the particular stars of the St. Alphonsus team. Murphy seemed the best player of the three, but he made one wild throw to first.

Fields Have Best Player.

Tom Barclay, covering first for the Fields, played the best game probably of any boy on the grounds. He is a left-hander and has all the little tricks and mannerisms of throwing that you see in the great first basemen of the big leagues.

Joe Harrington in right field backed him up when several wild throws went over his head in great style. Harrington also made a brilliant double play by catching a low drive to short right and catching a player who had left second.

Capt. McInroy of the Fields played a steady game and scooped up grounders and stinging drives like a veteran. Holthaus on second played a great game also.

St. Kevin's parish will give a family excursion to Montesano Park next Tuesday. The City of Providence will leave the foot of Olive street at 9 a. m.

POISONING LAID TO WALL PAPER

Miss Rose Revis' Case Investigated by City Chemist Buckland on Doctor's Request.

Officials of the Health Department are making an investigation to determine whether poison in a heavy green wall paper on the parlor of F. L. Osborne's home at 4158 Shenandoah avenue, has temporarily impaired the complexion of his niece, Miss Rose Revis, a pretty young woman of 21.

Dr. George E. Barth of 4154A Shenandoah avenue, who has been treating Miss Revis for a persistent eruptive disease of the skin, expresses the opinion that the wall paper was responsible. At his suggestion Mr. Osborne has sent a piece of the paper to City Chemist Buckland for analysis.

Dr. W. B. Wynn, Assistant Health Commissioner, doubts that the analysis will show enough arsenic—the drug believed to have poisoned Miss Revis—to account for her condition.

The paper was put on the walls of the parlor last spring. It is of exceptionally dark shade, tinged with white and brown. After the paper hangers had gone Miss Revis noticed the postules on her face and hands. Painters were at work in the house then and she then attributed the rash to the turpentine they were using.

BIG 'PHONE CO. IS FORMED BY ST. LOUIS MEN

Raising $12,000,000 to Invade Boston, New York and Other Eastern Cities.

TO BE INDEPENDENT

$7,000,000 to Be Used for Rochester Company and Rest Elsewhere.

Twelve million dollars is being raised by St. Louis promoters for investment in Eastern independent telephone enterprises. Of this amount $7,000,000 is to be used to rehabilitate the United States Independent Telephone Co. of Rochester, N. Y. Five millions are to be expended by a syndicate headed by Max Koehler in the construction of an independent telephone system in Boston.

Edward F. Goltra, who was appointed a member of the bondholders' committee of the United States Independent Telephone Co., undertook, a few weeks ago, to raise money to buy the company's securities.

Mr. Goltra, it was said, was not working the deal to make money for himself, but to save a lot of his friends who were induced to subscribe for the securities. Breckinridge Jones of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. brought the United States Independent Telephone Co. proposition to St. Louis in the fall of 1905.

Drop in Securities.

The securities were sold for par, and in less than a year dropped to 14. It is estimated that St. Louis investors lost between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. Mr. Goltra, after being appointed on the bondholders' committee a few weeks ago, went to work to organize a syndicate to save something from the wreck for his friends.

He is now in New York financing the proposition. It is reported that he has met with such favorable success that all the money needed will be raised. Mr. Goltra's connections with the Belmonts and other influential New Yorkers gave him access to the Eastern money markets.

Mr. Goltra and his associates have obtained an option on the securities, which runs until June 28. Several independent Eastern companies will likely be interested in the reorganized company.

If the Goltra deal is consummated the company may put an independent telephone system in New York City in operation to the Bell, the only company now operating there.

Independents in Boston.

The announcement that Max Koehler had purchased the Metropolitan Home Telephone Co. of Boston was made in Detroit, where Mr. Koehler is looking after some independent telephone interests. The company recently obtained a franchise to install an independent system in Boston, and Mr. Koehler says that the construction work will be started at once, and that $5,000,000 will be expended.

Koehler had a conference with Goltra in St. Louis a week ago, but it is not known whether it was to discuss the advisability of merging the Boston company with the United States Independent. Several months ago when the Bell was negotiating for the purchase of the Rochester company's securities some of the Western independents with which Mr. Koehler is identified considered a proposition to buy the securities.

Woman Deserted Ten Times in Two Years Will Hide in a Convent With Her Child.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Ten times deserted and once the deserter.

That is the remarkable domestic record of Chicago's most frequently deserted wife—Mrs. Norman P. Cummings.

According to a statement she made today concerning her dometsic life with her second husband—Norman B. Cummings—millionaire real estate dealer, she has been deserted more times in two years than any other woman in Chicago.

Her last step is to seek separate maintenance from her wealthy husband and the opportunity to retire into seclusion with her only child.

She wishes to get away from it all. She wants to return to a convent with her child. She has lived in society's whirl, tasted its sweets and bitterness, and now she wants to wipe the slate clean.

LITTLE GIRL RUNNING TO SCHOOL, KILLED BY CAR

Hurrying to Answer Bell, Her Playmate Leaped From Track As She Was Struck.

Marie Davidson, the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrss. Edward Davidson of 6325 Bartmer avenue, was struck by a rapidly moving car, in charge of a new motorman, on Maple avenue near Leona avenue, Thursday afternoon and killed.

The bed of the track is low and this fact saved the child's body from being mangled. The initial blow broke her neck.

The little girl was hasetning back to All Saints' School in response to the recess bell. She had been gathering flowers in a field. Her companion, Marie Layden, saw the car just in time to step back.

An experienced motorman, J. E. Farrel, was standing in the front vestibule, giving the new man instruction. The car men carried the child's body to the car sheds a block away and later it was sent home.

Judge Refuses to Perform Ceremony for Young Man Who Had No Cage for Bride.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Unless the prospective husband has prepared a home for his intended wife there should be no marriage, Judge Julian W. Mack believes, and for this reason he refused today to perform a ceremony which would have joined George H. Lundgren, 22, and Ida Richter, 17, in wedlock.

The girl is a ward of the juvenile court.

Judge Mack asked several questions of the prospective bridegroom, learning that Lundgren was not employed at present.

"What will you do?" he asked Miss Richter.

"I can live with my mamma," she answered.

"Have you not furnished a home of your own?"

"Not yet," Lundgren answered. "I'm living at home now, but just as soon as I get work I'll get a home for us."

"No," the Court said. "I will not marry you. You have not a home of your own yet, so I don't think it would be well. But I will parole you, Ida, and we will see how everything turns out."

Fire Smokes Up Hams.

"Fine smoked hams" were additionally cured and smoked in a fire that damaged the plant of the Independent Packing Co., 3855 Chouteau avenue. Aside from the extra smoking the hams received, much of the bacon in the stock was turned to a crisp brown. The fire loss was estimated at $500, caused by an overheated smokestack.

TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE LIKELY

National President Tells St. Louis Men to Be Ready for Emergency.

It is believed by the officers of the local Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America that a strike will be called against either or both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies within the next few days. A. L. Ewing, president of Local Union No. 3, received a telegram Friday from J. S. Small of New York, the national president of the union. The telegram reads:

"Situation looks like trouble with one or both companies. Keep your men together. Get ready for an assessment. Get in touch with the labor men and with others who can give financial and moral support."

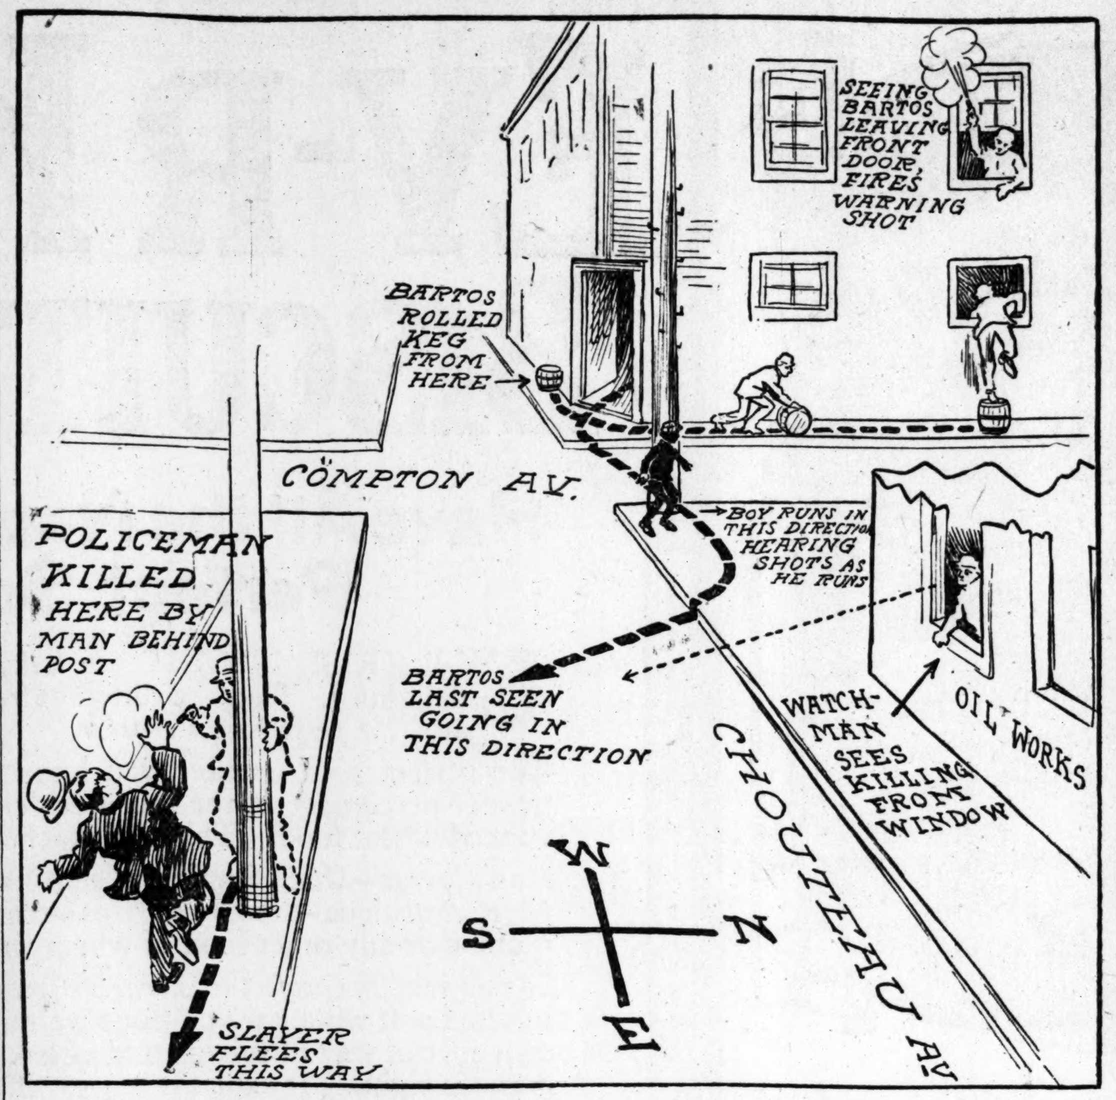

President Ewing interpreted this telegram to mean that trouble was imminent. Steps will be taken here to follow the advice of the national president.

Ewing said that he expected to receive more definite news from President Small during the day. There are 600 operators employed in St. Louis, 400 by the Western Union and 200 by the Postal. Of these over 500 are said to be members of the local union. President Ewing said that since the trouble had arisen between the companies and the union many who have not been members are making application for admission.

The union complains that the telegraph companies have not treated the men fairly in the 10 per cent increase of salaries announced some time ago. It is claimed that the Western Union has given the increase only in localities where the union is strong, and that it has been discharging union members.

There is no complaint that the Postal has not made the wage advance general, but it is claimed that it has discriminated against the union men by discharging them as rapidly as cheaper men can be found to take their places.

BURGLARY WHICH PRECEDED MURDER AS RE-ENACTED BY CRIME SCHOOL PUPIL

For the police Friday, Eddie Williams, Crime School pupil, re-enacted the burglary committed in a saloon at Chouteau and Compton avenues by Edward Bartos and himself. Diagram shows where Policeman Boyce was shot two minutes after the burglary.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Pain in the Side, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other one medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years has been curing Female Complaints, such as Weak Back and kindred ailments, and Organic Diseases, and it dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.

Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

LINDSAY WAS THROWN OUT AS REFORM CHIEF

Anti-Saloon League Did It for Good of the Cause.

Tiring of his representation that he voluntarily withdrew from the superintendency of the State Anti-Saloon League, officials of that organization have cut the acquaintance of Rev. Samuel I. Lindsay, president and chief factotum of the new Missouri Law-Enforcement League.

Dr. C. E. Carlos, secretary and acting superintendent of the anti-saloon organization, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that Dr. Lindsay practically had been invited by his associates to seek other fields of endeavor.

In support of this Dr. Carlos pointed to the following resolution adopted by the Anti-Saloon League at its meeting May 31:

"Be it resolved that it is the sense of this committee that for the best interests of the League Dr. Lindsay should not longer be continued as superintendent."

That meeting was attended by Revs. W. B. Palmore, W. J. McKittrick, Father James T. Coffey, Rev. W. M. Jones, J. Layton Mauze, Henry Walser and W. P. Rodgers.

Exceeded His Authority.

"We desired Dr. Lindsay's resignation because he was exceeding his authority as head of the Anti-Saloon League," declared Dr. Carlos. "He was dipping into this vice business too much and we didn't like that sort of thing.

"The work of the Anti-Saloon League is confined solely to the regulation of the liquor traffic. We seek to enforce the law through the regularly constituted authorities, who are elected and sworn to execute the laws. If these authorities refuse to do their duty the Anti-Saloon League arouses a public sentiment to compel them to do so or to cause their defeat at the next election."

Dr. Carlos intimated that as a balm to Dr. Lindsay's wounded feelings the Anti-Saloon League had offered him a minor position after ousting him as superintendent.

Lindsay Didn't Protest.

"Dr. Lindsay, however, said Dr. Carlos "surrendered without protest. At the same time he announced his intention of starting the Law-Enforcement League.

"Of course, we know nothing about that. I regretted very much to see that one of its officers got into trouble over arresting some women out on Lucas avenue. That was very bad indeed. There is no questioning the principle that you cannot cure vice by resorting to vice yourself.

It appears that U. G. Robinson, another officer of the Anti-Saloon League, preferred charges of incompetency against Dr. Lindsay. Dr. Lindsay in turn accused Mr. Robinson of insubordination. Mr. Robinson is now performing the active work of the Anti-Saloon League.

Pollard Is Caustic.

Judge Pollard of the Dayton Street Police Court is anxious to meet Dr. Lindsay.

"I noticed that Dr. Lindsay accused me of suffering with brainstorm," said Judge Pollard Friday. "Well, I wonder what the trouble with him is? I treated Dr. Lindsay very courteously in the Salyers case. He is probably a bell-weather reformer who thinks nobody is perfect but himself.

"I am sorry I had to flay his man Salyers as I did, but it was a duty I owed the community. And if Dr. Lindsay investigates he will find out that what I said was fully justified by the testimony Mr. Salyers gave on the witness stand."

HERE'S A PUZZLE IN POLICE DEPARTMENT TO WORRY A LAWYER

The Force Is Breaking Its Own Law Today and Can't Help It.

"When is a law not a law?"

"Are the police not expected to enforce all laws?"

"Will the commissioners fire the police for not enforcing the law?"

"Can the police compel the commissioners to obey the law?"

These are only a few of the questions being asked by patrolmen relative to a point of law raised in the Police Department Friday.

The eight-hour police law should have gone into effect Friday, but it did not because the Police Department is not yet in condition to enforce it. The police are worried over the situation. They ar restrained by themselves from enforcing a law which they themselves had framed.

The reason the new law cannot be put into effect just now is that there are not enough police to feed a three-platoon system. The law provides new policemen shall be sworn in next week, but until they become experienced enough to walk beats without the guidance of old policemen the eight-hour law will be a thing of the future.

The board at its meeting Friday afternoon will make arrangements for placing about two hundred and fifty additional men on the force.

The eight-hour system will go into effect when Chief Creecy returns from his vacation.

Investigation Coming.

From Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Yes; I'm going abroad at once. I got-ta go. "Oh, you musn't let the doctors scare you." "I got this from a lawyer."

DR. WOODSON'S FATE NOW IS IN BOARD'S HANDS

Asylum Probers in Session Until Midnight Without Reaching Decision.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 14.—The Board of Managers, investigating conditions in State Hospital No. 2, finished the hearing of testimony Thursday afternoon.

Until midnight Thursday the five members of the board were in session deliberating upon the matter. The stenographer who took down all the testimony was with the board, and when a difference of opinion arose about testimony he read extracts from his notes. At midnight the board had not reached a decision and it adjourned, to meet with the stenographer again Friday.

From what members of the board have said to friends, it is believed here that one member will listen to nothing but a full exoneration of Dr. C. R. Woodson on all charges. The four other members of the board are agreed, it is said, that Dr. Woodson should leave the hospital, but are not agreed as to the method by which he should be removed from his position of Superintendent.

Board Divided.

One member favors a finding that the charges of immoral conduct have been not proven, but that Dr. Woodson should resign for the good of the institution. Two members favor a finding that would not mention his guilt or innocence of immoral conduct, but would simply declare that Dr. Woodson should resign because of conditions he has permitted to exist in the hospital.

It is possible that the board will not reach a conclusion at all, but will argue along for several days and adjourn without having settled the matter. The decision of a majority of the board is binding.

Some Would Have to Quit.

If the board should vote to retain Dr. Woodson two of the three remaining assistant physicians and about 20 of the 85 women nurses and as many men attendants would resign at once. They have talked and worked against Dr. Woodson and could not expect to remain if he was in charge.

GIRLS OF MARY INSTITUTE GRADUATED BEFORE THRONG

Exercises Held in Odeon Theater, Which Was Gay With Colors and Flowers.

Sweet girl graduates of Mary Institute, clad in white, formed a row across the front of the big stage at the Odeon Friday morning for their commencement exercises, and their friends packed the house. The stage was decorated in the college colors—green and white—and those taking part in the program carried bouquets of these colors.

Miss Margaret Alden Little delivered the address of welcome, and the first essay, on "The Curate in English Fiction," was read by Miss Irene Gladys Fisher, who also wrote the music for the class hymn, sung at the end of the program. Miss Airine Eidson Shackelford read an essay called "A Sketch of the Wessex People," and after a song the diplomas were presented by Chancellor Chaplin of Washington University. The words for the class hymn were written by Miss Nancy Barnhart.

GIRL WONDER TAKES HONORS

Miss Hazel Dorothy Ovens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ovens of 1327 Laurel place, a member of this year's graduating class at the McKinley High School, is believed to be the youngest High School graduate in the history of St. Louis schools. Miss Ovens is 15 years old.

Since she first started in kindergarten in Louisiana, Mo., where she was born, Miss Ovens has led her respective classes. Throughout her school life she has never had an examination grade below 90, and for examination to enter the High School from the Madison School her grade was 95. At the time of her entrance to the High School she was 11 years old, and was believed then to be the youngest graduate from a grammar school.

Miss Ovens' mother accounts for her daughter's rapid progress by the fact that she has always been compelled to work out all school problems by herself, and has never received assistance from her parents.

This, the mother believes, has caused Miss Hazel to grasp her studies more firmly, with the result that advanced work came easier to her.

Mrs. Ovens will receive at her home in Laurel place Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p. m. for her daughter, who will continue her studies for the next four years in Washington University.

Shows Navy in Moving Pictures.

The Central Y. M. C. A. at Grand and Franklin avenues will give an exhibition of the United States naval forces afloat and on shore, illustrated on moving pictures, June 19 and 20, at 8:30 p. m.

Youth Who Confessed Robberies Cuts Throat in Missouri Jail.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOLIVAR, Mo., June 14.—That oblivion might give his parents opportunity to efface from their memory the disgrace he has brought upon them, Clyde Doner, 22 years old, in jail for robbing the Bank of Aldrich, Mo., cut his throat here last night, after a futile attempt with two companions to break jail. He died shortly afterward.

Doner, William Dunbar and Edward Waggoner were arrested here last Tuesday. Doner, who showed his youth, took the situation keenly to heart. He wrote a letter to his father and mother begging forgiveness and admitting that he had taken part in seven robberies. One passage said:

"I am in trouble and in jail. It will be about sixty days before I get a trial. I made a confession to seven robberies which I am guilty of. I do not know what will become of me. I may be sent to the Penitentiary for the rest of my days. I may get a life sentence and I may get paroled on good behavior, but I don't know."

Then came the jail-break failure, with the knowledge that it meant a heavy sentence. He wrote another letter, drew a razor across his throat and ended it all. The second letter follows, in part:

"I am sorry that I must take my own life, father and mother. In death you can forget this sorrow, but with me in the Penitentiary you could never forget. Mother, you have been a true mother to me. Father, you have been a true father to me. My brothers and sisters have all been true to me. It is all my fault—trouble I made for myself. Take it as well as you can. Good-by, father; good-by, mother."

The letters were addressed in the care of Alice Doner, 715 South Clayton street, Bloomington, Ill.

GREATEST CAR PLANT IN WORLD AT GARY, INDIANA

American Foundry Company Preparing to Occupy 170 Acres of Ground.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—Plans are being drawn for steel car works which will eventually become the central plant of the American Car and Foundry Co., to be located at Gary, Ind., adjacent to the mammoth steel works now being built by the United States Steel Corporation, according to an announcement published today.

The company has purchased 170 acres of land, but the statement is made that it will go slow about the actual building of the plant, timing its expansion as trade conditions warrant.

The new plant will have a capacity of 100 cars a day. It was said by an officer of the company that there would be no capital obligations issued to provide funds for the new plant, which will be built entirely out of earnings.

EV-R KRISP BISCUIT

Have All the Nutriment of Wheat—Perfect Soda Cracker

EV-R KRISP BISCUIT are flaky and delicious. The flavor is altogether delightful. They are different from any other cracker made, for Ev-r Krisp are "the perfect soda cracker."

The perfect soda cracker, you know, contains more nutrition—and retains a greater percentage of the nutritious element of wheat—than any other form of cooked wheat food. Think of that!

And it's true—Uncle Sam's experts say so, and we have verified it by repeated tests. More nutritious—are Ev-r Krisps—than bread or cereals, or cookies or cake, or muffins or any other food of which wheat flour forms the principal part.

So you see, "the perfect soda cracker" means something. It means that the specially selected soft winter wheat flour we buy for Ev-r Krisp is right. It means our own special way of mixing and of baking in modern ovens is right. It explains to you why you should always ask for Ev-r Krisp, for they are ever crisp, fresh and wholesome from the first nibble to the last cracker—in the Thrice-Sealed carton. Ask your grocer, he's the man.

MRS. WILLIAM ASTOR, ONCE SOCIAL QUEEN, NEAR DEATH

Millionaire Son of Aged Woman Admits That Her Reign as Leader of the 400 Is Ended.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, June 14.—Mrs. William Astor has become so weak that all plans have been abandoned for the opening of her Newport home this summer. Col. John Jacob Astor says his mother, in his belief, had not long to live.

Mrs. Astor has been failing for more than a year, since she began buying extravagantly in Paris. She bought bright colored gowns by the score, and assured her friends of her intention to make the social season of last winter the crowning triumph of her career as leader of the 400. The gowns were suited to a girl in her teens.

When on the way to Newport last fall Mrs. Astor collapsed in this city and for several days death was feared. She was attended in a hotel by several physicians from New York. Gradually she gained strength until she was able to stand the journey to her New York home, 842 Fifth avenue.

With the slow sapping of her strength, Mrs. Astor has fallen a victim of delusions. She has spent days at a time planning balls and supper parties.

Hundreds of invitations have been made out, with all attention to detail, only to be burned as soon as carried out of the aged woman's sight.

Mrs. Astor could only be led to eat by her nurses making pretense of refusing to give her any food. Then with visions of her former dominion Mrs. Astor would order meals, and when food was brought would eat in the belief she had gained a great victory.

One delusion of Mrs. Astor was that the table should be fastened to the ceiling, declaring that guests could not be comfortably seated with the table in any other position.

HOLY TRINITY PASTOR WHO IS NEAR DEATH

FATHER SCHROEDER.

DYING NEAR THE CHURCH HE BUILT

Father Joseph Schroeder of Holy Trinity Was Born Block From Present Home.

Under the shadow of the beautiful edifice that is a memorial to his life work, Rev. Father Joseph Schroeder, pastor of Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Fourteenth and Mallinckrodt streets, is dying of cancer of the stomach at his parochial residence. Physicians say he may live two or three days, but all hope of his recovery is abandoned. The last sacraments of the church have been given.

Father Schroeder was a child of the St. Louis parish. He was born in 1849, within a block of the present site of the Holy Trinity Church. His first schooling was in the St. Louis parochial schools. Later he went to school at Teupolis, Ill., and later finished at St. Francis, Wis.

His first pastorate was at Portage des Sioux, Mo. After two years there he went to Bridgeton, Mo., in 1876, and remained there seven years. He was a short time at Lynn, Mo., and the rest of his church life was spent in St. Louis.

When Father Schroeder took charge of Holy Trinity Church the building was small, and there was a church debt over it. The Holy Trinity Church, as it stands today, is almost unincumbered.

METHODS OF LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE DENOUNCED BY SAGER

Circuit Attorney Discredits Stories of Traffic in White Slaves.

Police Judge Pollard's denunciation of the methods employed by a detective of the Missouri Law Enforcement League to "make a case" is indorsed by Circuit Attorney Sager, who has refused to order a grand jury investigation of the white slave traffic alleged by the League's officers to exist.

"I agree with Judge Pollard," said Mr. Sager, "in his criticism of the methods employed by the League's representative, as revealed Wednesday in the Dayton Street Court.

"I do not believe any organized traffic of the sort charged by the League exists. I will not ask the grand jury to investigate merely on the general statements of the League's officers. If proof is furnished me of any such condition I will act promptly, but I have not sufficient confidence in the Missouri Law Enforcement League to act on charges made by its officers on hearsay evidence only."

KISSES AND WEEPS OVER WIFE WHO DIVORCES HIM

Husband Charged With Cruelty Creates Unusual Scene When Judge Makes Decree.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

OMAHA, Neb., June 14.—Frank Hermes embraced, kissed and wept over his wife, Mrs. Clara F. Hermes, in Judge Redick's court today when the Judge announced he should grant her a divorce.

"Good-by, good-by," he cried, taking his divorced wife in his arms. "You have broken up two homes for me, but I forgive you all."

Thirteen years ago Hermes procured a divorce from his first wife in Council Bluffs, Io., to wed the woman who has now divorced him. The latter is his cousin. She went to his home in Council Bluffs to visit him and he became infatuated with her.

Mrs. Hermes charged cruelty.

BODY OF SUICIDE IS MOLDED INTO BRICK

Peculiar Request of Man Who Ended His Own Life Is Carried Out by His Friends.

BOSTON, Mass., June 14.—At his written request, the body of Herman Unger, who committed suicide, was cremated, and the ashes, mixed with five pounds of cement, were molded into brick in the yard of a water-proofing company today.

The brick was placed in a double box and interred in a Hebrew cemetery.

Two of Unger's friends, David Jordan and H. E. Boyden, the former an Odd Fellow and the latter a thirty-second degree Mason, under the direction of J. Frederick Carr of the water-proofing company, carried out the strange request.

DIEL'S DECLARATIONS

Suppose you had nearly $25,000.00 tied up in summer suits that you had bought to sell for from $15.00 to $22.50.

Then the rain and the cold came and kept out of your store the men who might have bought these suits.

Wouldn't you think you were justified in cutting down the price to cut down the stock?

We're in just that position—

And therefore we're now selling

Lot No. 1. $18.00 to $15.00 Summer Suits

For $11.95

These suits are of fine firm-woven, wearful worsteds, serges and diagonals; the patterns are smart; the colorings are the most popular browns, grays and mixtures, both quiet and snappy in tone; the linings are luxurious; the tailoring is beyond reproach, being nearly all hand-work. Most of this lot we're showing are $18.00 suits, because we are greatly overstocked on this grade.

Lot No. 2. $22.50 to $20.00 Summer Suits

For $14.95

Rich shadow-stripe, box-check and pin-plaid serges and worsteds; clean, cool grays, dressy browns and snappy mixtures; some full-lined and some half-lined, with costly materials; tailored with the greatest care and grace; their undeniable $22.50 to $20.00 value is evident; the fact that they will soon disappear at $14.95 is just as evident; the moral is to get here today.

Straw Hats

All the new smart shapes; most extensive and least expensive array of hats in town.

Yacht shapes in fine split braids, $1.00 to $5.00.

LK-CLAD BABY FOUND IN PARK

olice Believe Six-Weeks-Old Infant Was Left in Basket to Starve.

Clad in silks and dainty linen, a blue-eyed baby boy was found Friday in Forest Park near the intersection of Belt avenue and the Lindell drive. It seemed a month and a half old and was in a chip basket covered with a newspaper. Apparently it had been there all night, and as no food was left for it the police believe the intention was that it should starve to death. When found at 10 a. m. it was so weak its cry could hardly be heard, but it was otherwise healthy.

Barney Meyer, a park gardener, found the child and took it to the Forest Park Substation. A silken cap, long silk dress and linen underclothes were its garments, but they bore no initials by which it could be identified. There was no note attached to the new split basket containing the baby.

Patrolman McVey took the boy to St. Ann's Asylum, and unless it is claimed or identified it will bear his name, according to the police custom when children are found.

GRADUATES OF CENTRAL HIGH DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Graduating exercises of the Yeatman High School were held Friday morning in the school auditorium, the presentation of diplomas being made by Dr. F. L. Magoon, vice-president of the Board of Education. There were 41 graduates. The Washington University scholarship was won by Hyman J. Ettlinger.

Closing exercises of the McKinley High School were held Thursday afternoon at the Odeon, President George R. Lockwood of the Board of Education awarding the diplomas. Alfred H. Conzelman won the Washington University scholarship, it being the first time that a boy has won the scholarship at the McKinley school.

The graduation of 118 young men and women from the Central High School attracted a capacity crowd of interested friends and relatives to the Odeon Theater Thursday. Careful attention to the arrangement of details marked the affair and the program was carried out with perfect smoothness.

Miss Emma Sophia Buss read an essay "The American Girl," as the opening number on the program. Her subject and delivery pleased the audience and she received enthusiastic applause. She is the winner of two scholarships: one to Wellesley College, the other to Washington University. As she has chosen to accept the Wellesley scholarship, Miss Josephine Gotsch, who won second place, will receive the Washington University honor.

Loyal C. Morrow's oration, "The Need of the Hour," was the second number.

"Colonial Times in New England" was the subject of the essay by Miss Josephine Gotsch. Her distinct enunciation and easy delivery appealed to the appreciative listeners.

Henry Roemer gave an oration on the "Future of the Nation,' handling the subject satisfactorily to his audience.

Miss Geneva Maye Stansell's essay, "Four Flags," and Charles H. Dean's orations, "Martyrs of State," proved up to the standard.

Miss Mary Louise Mayers, the vice-president of the class, chose for the subject of her essay, "The Poet's Calendar."

"The Crime Against the Children," by George A. Hodgman, reviewed that phase of the labor situation and directed an appeal toward the nation for a solution. Mr. Hodgman's oration completed the speeches by the class.

The musical numbers were various and of high order. Miss M. Teresa Finn, the musical director, conducted the choruses.

The Violin Club and the Glee Club received encores and responded creditably. "Mrs. Cozey's Boarding House," as an encore by the young men of the Glee Club, was light and humorous. Their popularity was unmistakable.

A crowd of High School boys, occupying one of the boxes, acted as leading spirits and put in some hard work "giving it" to their friends and former classmates.

"Hardest work I ever did," one said, while the group endeavored to cool their burning palms in time to "send off" the next in favor.

Prof. W. J. S. Bryan, principal of the Central High School, presented the class to Dr. Calvin M. Woodward of the Board of Education, who awarded the diplomas. Hand-clapping in different parts of the theater indicated the locality of the enthusiastic friends of the graduates as their names were read by Dr. Woodward, when they passed to the front to receive the "sheepskins." Favorites were literally stormed with the hand-clapping and as the last name had been called the impetus of fraternal enthusiasm broke bounds and class yells were unsuppressed.

Singing the "Alma Mater," the class, assisted by the chorus and the Glee Club, completed the exercises. As they marched in restrained order from the stage,

SAY WASN'T IT AWFUL, MABEL, TO ARREST ME

SOUBRETTE, ARRESTED FOR STEALING SISTER'S CLOTHES, SAYS IT IS ALL JEALOUSY

Soubrette From Kerosene Circuit Tells Woes Caused by Sister's Charge.

"AN' ME A REAL LADY"

"I Never Stole Her Finery Because She Hasn't Any," Declares Actress.

MISS MARY COLLIER.

Miss Mary Christine ("Tiny") Collier, a soubrette known on the "kerosene circuit" in Illinois as Miss Helen McRoy, laments the jealousy her theatrical success has aroused in the breast of her elder sister, Mrs. Sadie Redden of 521 South Tenth street, East St. Louis.

"I made a hit on the stage," Miss Collier told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, "and it nearly killed Sadie. She's been sore ever since I came back last February, and she has tried to guy me and make fun of me. Seein' that didn't do no good, she had me arrested, sayin' I stole her clothes. Say, wouldn't that knock your hat off? Me, a perfect lady and soubrette for the Peerless Comedians, stealin' that woman's rags!

Opposed to the Stage.

"Sadie didn't want me to go on the stage, anyhow. She always was jealous of me. She was awful sore when I was endlady with the Olympics and the Hot-Time Minstrels here in East St. Louis, but when I got to be a soubrette she nearly died.

"Me and Mabel Colwell—she was piano player for the Peerless—was walking along Main street Wednesday night, when a policeman came up and pinched me. 'You'll have to go to the station with me,' says he, but he was awful perlite an' nice about it, too.

"Well, I thought I would go right through the floor—or the sidewalk, wherever I was standing. But Mabel, she told some funny stories—somehow that girl never loses her head—and I nearly died a-laughin'. Because right over there on the other corner was Sadie. She had pointed us out to the copper, and she was so excited her hat had slipped right back on her topknot, and say, she did look a fright. Says I 'Wouldn't it jar you, Mabel?'

Crowds Follows Her.

"We walked along Main street, and I never see so many people staring in my life. Seemed like all the lights in the United States was shining right there in Main street—worse than the spotlight when I did my first turn as soubrette.

"I held my handkerchief up to my face and tried to hide it, but when we got to the station there was about three hundred people following.

"The sergeant and everybody was awful nice, and when I told them the real reason why Sadie had me arrested they laughed fit to kill. All of them sympathized with me.

"Sadie told them there was a warrant already out for me, but they couldn't find it, and turned me loose. Then, later, they did find it, and yesterday they arrested me again.

"A fren' of mine give bail for me—$200, I believe—and I was turned loose again. I won't have any trouble beating the case to the wire. Sadie, she says I got a hat, dress and other finery. Finery—wouldn't that burn you?

"Say, she's got about as much finery as the Peerless Comedians had money when they busted in Chicago. Mabel and I come home without a stitch of clothes to our names—had to leave our trunks and every rag we had in Chicago. Tough luck—to go broke that way.

Tragedy of Comedians.

"That's the tragedy of the comedians.

"Guess Sadie thinks I'm going to have a good time this summer and wants to get me behind the bars. We'll see whether she does or not.

"But I ain't saying what I'll do if she gets on the stand and says anything that ain't so about me."

MORGAN GETS ART TREASURES

American Financier Buys Collection of a Famous House.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PARIS, June 14.—J. Pierpont Morgan has purchased the collection of Fifteenth-century marbles and bronzes belonging to the princely house of Strozzi of Florence.

The price was $300,000.

The collection is housed in the Palazzo Strozzi, in a street also called after this old Florentine family.

To Make Dynamite.

A deed was filed for record with Circuit Clerk Ludovic Laurent of Jerseyville Thursday by the Illinois Powder Manufacturing Co. of Grafton, Ill. This tract of land was purchased from William E. Nims of East St. Louis for $6000. The company has already started on this tract the erection of a large plant for the manufacture of powder, dynamite and various kinds of explosives.

Sure of Coliseum Fund.

With less than $30,000 yet to be raised to complete the fund for the new coliseum, James E. Smith, president of the Business Men's League, states that there is no longer doubt but that the project will go through, and that the fund will be finished within two weeks. New subscriptions to the amount of $22,750 were reported at a meeting at the Merchantile Club Thursday.

BANK GATEMAN'S SERMON TO CLERKS STOPPED BY DEATH

Aged Negro Falls to Floor in Midst of Fervid Religious Appeal.

While Albert Burgess Johnson, an aged negro gateman for the Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co., was reminding several clerks of their religious duties Friday morning, he became excited, dropped to the floor and died from heart failure. Johnson was an ordained Baptist minister.

He had been employed by the trust company since June, 1902. Early last December Johnson was treated at the City Hospital for carbolic acid poisoning. He said afterward that he took the drug by mistake, but later he made statements indicating an attempt at suicide with some religious idea that he had.

Johnson founded the Antioch Baptist Church at 4223A Kennerly avenue. He also established a Baptist church at Allington, Mo., and last summer organized a colored church at Carlyle, Ill. He lived at 2719 Wash street.

CONTRACTOR BLAMED FOR DEATH

Coroner's Jury Criticizes Third National Bank Contractor.

The erection of the Third National Bank Building at Broadway and Olive street "was being carried on in an improper manner, contrary to city ordinance," when James Stewart, an ironworker, met death there Wednesday, according to the finding of a Coroner's jury at the inquest into his death Friday.

Stewart, moving a heavy timber, misstepped and fell from the seventeenth to the ninth story, striking the steel framework at every floor. He died at St. Mary's Infirmary a few hours later.

The city ordinances provide that every floor shall be covered with planking to prevent such falls. On account of Stewart's death the structural ironworkers all over St. Louis walked out Thursday until flooring was put in by contractors.

A BAD HABIT, AND THE REMEDY

Many women have a bad habit of using carbolic acid as a disinfectant about the house in spite of the fact that is it a dangerous poison and liable to cause the death of any one of the family who might be careless.

Instead of using carbolic acid an excellent disinfectant and one that is non-poisonous is C. N. Disinfectant, as it is just as strong as carbolic yet absolutely harmless.

It is also good for many different uses in the home and is economical as well.

PRISON DOORS OPEN TO LET OUT BOODLERS

Lehmann and Hartmann, Last of Convicted Officials, Freed on Pardon.

Julius Lehmann and Emil Hartmann were released from the Penitentiary at Jefferson City on pardons by Gov. Joseph W. Folk at 8 a. m. Friday. With the release of Lehmann and Hartmann the prison was cleared of the boodlers who were convicted by Folk when he was Circuit Attorney of St. Louis.

It had been arranged to release the men at 10 a. m., but as they had many friends in Jefferson City whom they wished to see before starting for St. Louis, they were let out two hours earlier. Both men arose before 7 a. m. and were fully prepared to leave the prison when Warden Hall notified them an hour later that the time had come to set them free.

Lehmann Very Happy.

"I am very happy," he remarked to the guards as he shook their hands, thanked them for their courtesies and bid them farewell.

Awaiting Lehmann in the office were his daughter, Miss Lulu Lehmann, to whose efforts he owes his pardon at this time; his sister, Mrs. Frances Hertwick, and his two sons, Julius Jr. and Charles. The party went to Jefferson City Thursday night. A neat business suit was taken by the boys to their father. It was sent to him in the prison, and he put it on before he was released.

Lehmann greeted his children and his sister affectionately when he stepped outside of the walls that have held him a prisoner for nearly four years.

He stepped into a carriage and was driven to the office of Louis Ott, a Jefferson City lumber dealer, where a luncheon and refreshments were served.

Sees Gov. Folk.

Lehmann was anxious to see Gov. Folk and thank him for the pardon. As soon as the Governor went to his office Lehmann, his daughter and two sons proceeded to the Capitol building and were ushered into the presence of Gov. Folk. Lehmann expressed his deep appreciation of the Governor's action in granting him a pardon.

Hartmann was met at the prison by his wife and two children, and his brother, Albert, who is a Captain of the St. Louis Fire Department. He rode in a carriage to the home of friends of his wife. He has been promised his old position as a draftsman with a firm of St. Louis contractors. He expects to go to work in a few days after returning to St. Louis—probably Monday.

Lehmann said that he had not decided upon his plans for the future.

Lehmann and Hartmann, their families and friends, will leave Jefferson City for St. Louis on an afternoon train. They will arrive at Union Station at 6 p. m.

THE TERMINAL QUESTION.

Assertions that the Post-Dispatch has abandoned the free bridge and that it has been "sold out" are so palpably absurd that they do not require serious reply.

The Post-Dispatch's position cannot be misunderstood. We have not said that the wharf terminal bill ought to be passed. On the contrary, we have warned the Municipal Assembly not to pass it without a clear demonstration that the measure is demanded by public interests and unless it safeguards those interests at every point. We demand that any bill granting terminal franchises shall be so framed that all monopoly features will be eliminated and there will be no possibility of exclusion or discrimination in the use of the tracks. We demand also that the compensation shall be adequate.

The Post-Dispatch has not, without consideration or reason, violently denounced this and other plans for terminal extension to supply the pressing needs of St. Louis traffic; but it has urged that each measure proposed be considered from the standpoint of public, not private, interest, and rejected, adopted or modified, as sound judgment may dictate.

But we realize the inadequacy of present terminal facilities. These facilities have been inadequate for years. But the Post-Dispatch has withstood the granting of new franchises to the Terminal combine so long as that combine refused to do justice to St. Louis. Nearly all of the evils it represents have been eliminated, and we shall not cease fighting until every one is gone.

The free bridge has already accomplished a great deal. The adoption of the bond amendment brought the railroad combine to terms. It will accomplish more good. When it is built it will make bridge tolls impossible and will break down every barrier to the East. But the city has no plan of independent terminals, nor is it likely for many years that there will be an independent terminal system. While the free bridge project is pending, and until an independent terminal system is devised and completed, we must have adequate facilities of some kind for the handling of St. Louis traffic. It would be the height of folly to deprive the railroads now operating in St. Louis and serving St. Louis the needed facilities merely because the city hopes to have better facilities in the future. It would be suicidal. The future we hope for would never come. The best that we can do is to see that these facilities immediately needed be acquired on reasonable terms and that they shall be open on the same conditions as the railroads now in St. Louis use them, to every railroad that shall hereafter enter the city, by the free bridge or otherwise.

Let Congressman Hobson have no fears. Should the wars he prophesies come about we shall place him at the head of the navy and sweep the seas.

MR. BRYCE'S WISE COUNSEL.

In summing up the lessons of history to the American people in his thoughtful and able addresses at the University of Illinois, Ambassador Bryce emphasized two conclusions which public-spirited citizens of the United States must draw from the political history of other countries.

One is a firm faith in democracy, in the soundness of the theory of government by the people. He called attention to the fact that while democracy has its faults, they are neither so many nor so grave as the faults of other forms of government, and affirmed as a general lesson of history that the Government of one or of a class is far worse than a government of the whole people.

But in order that the full blessings of popular self-government shall be reaped, Mr. Bryce insisted on the importance of the lesson found in the history of other popular governments, that the whole people must participate actively and intelligently in the work of government. Vigilance is the price of the sure and efficient government, and it is necessary for the citizens of the free government to examine the character of their leaders, to comprehend the workings of the government and to exercise independent judgment on every measure that comes up for determination.

These injunctions from an outsider who has made a comprehensive study of history, of the history and development of the English-speaking people, and especially of the United States—are particularly valuable in this crisis. The people must inform themselves of the value of measures of reform and of progress in the light of history, and they must carefully avoid hasty or violent action or a blind following of leaders who may be unscrupulous, or of party organizations for mere party purposes. In the turmoil of agitation over the new issues now confronting the American people, it is of the utmost importance that popular action be guided by wisdom. Mr. Bryce is a good counselor.

"It is a matter for congratulation that there is such a steady increase of interest in the Southern States in everything pertaining to children," says Mr. Roosevelt. Certainly. With Mr. Roosevelt's great and wealthy State of New York constantly dumping its surplus of poor babies in the South, that section must needs take new interest in children.

THE COSTS OF THE WAR.

Under the operations of the Chicago meat monopoly, the municipality of St. Louis will pay about $15,000 more for meat this year for public institutions than last year. In other words, not more than half a dozen men in Chicago have only to agree to impose this advanced price as a tax on the public treasury of St. Louis and St. Louis must pay it.

It is important to give this full consideration. It is still more important to consider it as a direct result of last year's Federal "reform" of the abuses of this Chicago monopoly.

After the Big Stick, Federal intervention and increased Federal inspection, the men who control the monopoly study the new situation very calmly. They decide that someone must pay increased cost to recompense them for their increased trouble as monopolists.

First, the producer must pay these increased costs. He must bear the burden of Federal intervention and inspection on all his cattle and also the losses on condemned animals. This is a mere detail. The full meaning of what it costs to make a public spectacle of reforming a monopoly, with the understanding all round that it is merely spectacular, appears in the levy of what is virtually an indemnity tax on the public to pay the monopoly for the costs of the war.

As a city, St. Louis will contribute $15,000. But this is not a tenth of what the people of the city will be compelled to pay. The total indemnity will run far into the millions.

The President is telling the editors to always be sure of their facts, but the papers are likely to have more than the usual number of animal stories this summer.

AGENTS FOR THE CITY.

Under the proposed ordinance through which the Chicago Telephone Co. seeks an extension of its franchise for 20 years, the company concedes that in the exercise of the franchise it is to be the agent of the city, fully responsible to the municipality for its use of all the public privileges granted.

It agrees to pay the city 3 per cent of its gross receipts in Chicago from all sources; to keep its books in the form prescribed by the City Comptroller and open at all times for city inspection; to pay the city all profits above 10 per cent net on actual investment, and to make no combination of any kind with any other company for the purpose of dividing territory or fixing rates.

The ordinance proposes no exclusive grant. The city safeguards its right to license other companies, to revise rates at the end of five-year periods and to terminate the ordinance either at the expiration of the franchise or at earlier periods named in the ordinance, with the right to purchase the plant at a price named.

The maximum rate of $15 a quarter for single business lines, including 300 outgoing calls, have a scheduled rate for extra calls, which illustrate the fact that the rate schedules throughout the ordinance do not promise the largest possible use of the telephone during the life of the franchise. The point, however, is that if the principle of the ordinance operates through systematic good faith, the use of the telephone becomes systematically an important source of public revenue, available in lieu of taxation for public improvements.

Rightly administered, the public utilities of a modern city will finally pay for its public improvements. And finally they will be rightly administered.

Dr. Ben. L. Reitman, the "hobo" expert, divides the human wanderers into three classes—the "hobo" who occasionally interrupts his travels with a job of work; the tramp, who never works, because it interrupts his travels, and the bum, who interrupts his loaf with a borrowed drink. This classification illustrates the art of making distinctions where there is little difference.

ROOSEVELT AND THE MISSISSIPPI.

That thorough cosmopolitanism in the United States which renders Mr. Roosevelt from all parts of it, will not fail him when he comes to St. Louis in October for his river trip down to Memphis.

As we are by this time prepared to expect, the President will be able to claim oneness with all rivermen and hail them as old shipmates and fellow salts. His great-uncle, Capt. Nicholas Roosevelt, built and commanded the first steamboat upon the Mississippi River. This is not a coincidence, but an ordinary and every-day illustration of the remarkable manner in which the roots of his being intertwine with those of the nation. It will only be the usual Roosevelt revelation of common interest that he shall be enabled to recall that this great-uncle of his launched the steamer New Orleans, the first Mississippi River steamboat, at Pittsburg in 1811. Her descent of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers in the fall of that year opened with tremendous acclaim at all the landings the era of steam navigation upon the Western waters.

If the President's sense of humor is alert when he touches upon this further proof of his cosmopolitanism, he will also tell us that his great-uncle's boat, after a prosperous and useful career, struck a Big Stick near Natchez in 1814 and went down grandly and finally.

It is hoped that the President will not attack any of the natural history brought back by our Millionaire McMillan.

JUST A MINUTE

WITH POST-DISPATCH POETS AND HUMORISTS

TO A WOOD THRUSH.

Sing, little chorister, sing!
Sing till the bell in your throat
Tinkles to each of the glories of day
A beautiful, silvery note,
Sing while the soft-falling shadows of night
Darken your apple-tree cote.

Ah, what a singer you are!
What a sweet roll there is in
The tinkle-tink-tinkle that comes from your throat
With a clamorous, musical din.
O, why is it, birdie, that sometimes your note
Is perfect, and sometimes 'tis thin?

O, what a day it has been!
June's such a wonder for days.
How it inspirits a dear little bird
To offer its rhapsodic lays!
O, who wouldn't barter soft winds and fair skies
For such a rich portion of praise?

Bird of the twilight the most
Gifted in song to return
Thanks for the least of the g'ories of day,
Sing, while the day's spaces turn
Somber with night, and within the far West
The last dying sun-banners burn.

FUN.

Most of us declare if we had money we would have fun. People who have money probably said the same thing before they got it. Let us look around and observe what they call fun.

Cranking an automobile on a hot day, out in the glaring sun, looks like the real thing. Of course, it doesn't look it at first blush, but about the time the perspiration begins to run, and his face gets good and red, and his cuss-sparker begins to explode, anybody can see it is fun.

Living in a huge house, with a dozen servants, iron dogs on the lawn, a bronze gargoyle spraying the front plot, and all the externals bespeaking internal riches, looks like it. Of course, these outcroppings are not entirly convincing, but when the front door opens every second day and an indignant cook, laundress or butler, with his or her clothes under his or her arm, comes marching down the front stoop, exercising the inalienable right to quit, we can be sure it is fun.

Having nothing to do but keep track of one's millions would seem to be the answer. It appears to consist of putting a few thousand in this good thing and a couple of million in that, and then leisurely waiting the certain harvest of profit. True, this may not be all it seems, but when we see the millionaire emerge from his refuge to have one promoter swing upon his right arm, another grapple with his left, a third climb his back, and others clinch him around the legs, the middle and the neck, all doing their best to let him in where he can put up 1 and take down 2, until he looks like a hunted animal that would fain be a poor man, we can dismiss doubt and know it is great fun.

Travel couldn't be anything but fun, to guess at it. But if we haven't traveled, we can't be sure, so we have to see the rich man come home from his tour. When we mark his singular antics, how he hugs the dear old home place again and again, kisses the ground it stands on, pats the front door lovingly, bursts into tears of gratitude when he spots the beloved old front hall, and dances around swearing that if heaven will let him live so long he will spend the rest of his life in his comfortable home giving of his means to prosecute the extermination of Pullman cars, tyrannical porters, begging waiters, cheap-rate crowds, resorts, ships and guides, we know we guessed right when we said it is fun.

Written Especially for the Post-Dispatch

By Clark McAdams.

IF HARRY ORCHARD, mighty man, put liddite in a powder can,
Put potash on it for a wad, and rammed it with a lightning rod,
Attached a big percussion cap, and blew a county off the map,
Who was it, logical and plain, that must have blown the U. S. Maine?

If Harry Orchard, fellow dread, sawed two feet from a pipe of lead,
And filled it up with powder quite, thrust in four sticks of dynamite,
Put in some H_2SO_4, and blew one state all over four,
Why should we hire that Isthmus mob, when Harry could be on the job?

If Harry Orchard took a bomb, and measured out upon his palm
Of nitro-glycerine one dram, and radium an even gram,
And then, unto his task addrest, remade the scenery out West,
What sense that scientists should make a problem of the Frisco quake?

If Harry Orchard, modern Jove, put in the oven of a stove
Of giant powder ninety parts, sulphuric acid seven quarts,
Sugar a part and caps in gum, and blew a town to kingdom come,
Why should the Czar of Russia hide, with Harry Orchard on this side?

LOVE IS ALWAYS WAR.

A Reflection Indited for the Post-Dispatch

By Nixola-Greeley-Smith.

TWO young men of East Aurora, N. Y., famous as the home of Elbert Hubbard, rivals for the affections of the same girl, engaged in a fist-fight for her favor, and as a result both have lost her.

The fact that the young woman discarded both admirers is a sign of the times and a distinct encouragement to the aims of the Peace Conference.

In very early times the victor would have taken the girl as a matter of course. She would not, in fact, have ventured to express a preference, even to herself, until the last round had been fought. Later the instinct of pity developed and tamed the savage woman's breast till the vanquished in the battle for her favor was more apt to receive it than the victor, who, looking around for his reward, was apt to find her with his defeated rival's head in her lap, pouring witch hazel on his wounds.

The incident in East Aurora proves that at least one woman has survived the earliest instinct of pride in the brutality of the conqueror, the later and finer impulse of pity for the conquered, and has put both suitors aside for the preservation of the mere abstraction—Peace.

To be sure, she may not have loved either combatant. Indeed, it is not at all likely she did, for she must have found forgiveness in her heart for that one of the rivals she preferred.

But her action has proved that she does love peace and a quiet mind and detests violence. And if every woman could enforce her love of peace on the men of her acquaintance to the same extent, there would be no more need of Hague conferences and Mr. Carnegie would have to look about for a new hobby.

But the world would be no better for the change. Men have always warred for women's favor. Women have always schemed and plotted and betrayed each other for men's love. Once one cave man stole up behind another, knocked him senseless with a club and took the girl that he wanted away from him. Today he uses a sandbag of gold instead of a club and hits the girl with it instead of the other suitor. But the result in both cases is the same. The world was a very simple place when a man could fight with his fists for a girl and she was the sweepstakes, and not both stakes and referee, as she is now.

The aurora girl is considerably ahead of the times in declaring the stakes forfeited because her suitors used their fists instead of the more peaceful weapons of flowers and theater tickets and motor trips, by which modern knights contend for their lady's favor. I am not sure that she is right. But she may certainly be counted among the pioneers of peace.

GILA'S BITE POISONS BLOOD.

OF some of the strange ways of the gila monster, that little-known creature of the southwestern deserts, a correspondent of the Chicago News writes:

"I have had some experience with gila monsters, and can state that, no matter what scientists may claim, the gila monster is a good thing to shun. Indians and Mexicans have a horror of them and fear them more than a rattlesnake. I believe that the bite of the gila monster is dangerous because of the creature's habit of eating lizards, bugs and rodents, and then lying on sand so hot that it blisters the hands and feet of men. The heat causes the food to ferment, evidenced by the fact that the teeth are often covered with a fermented froth from the food. A bite has the same effect as the cut of a dissecting knife used on a cadaver; in other words, the inoculation of a deadly poison. When frightened or angry he can move quite rapidly. That short, thick, stubby tail is used in jumping, just as a kangaroo uses his tail. The gila monster bites like a bulldog and has the tenacity of a snapping turtle.

"Japanese Friction."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your editorial on "Japanese Friction," you say the way to avoid irritation is to get rid of the causes of irritation. Cars to Gratiot.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Being a subscriber of your paper for years, and seeing some good results attending some of the kicks, I thought I would like to air a little grievance about the answer Mr. McCulloch gave the committee of the Twenty-fourth Ward, to extend the cars out to Lindenwood and Gratiot. Now, the car company could do so with very little expense. Even if they only would extend them half a mile, it would gladden the hearts of a good many weary pedestrians, who sometimes miss the trains, or are compelled to be downtown later than 6:25 and not as late as 11:35. If Mr. McCulloch would walk the distance after a hard day of labor, he would see the necessity greater there than adding more lines in the West End.

GRATIOT.

Kindly allow me a few words in your widely read paper to say that it seems to take about as much of the law officers' time to keep the rich men from stealing from the poor people as the poor highwayman.

Discomfort at Tower Grove Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Public Comfort Station at the north entrance to Tower Grove Park is in striking contrast to the general condition of that resort. While the park is a thing of beauty and joy; this place, intended for the comfort of the public, is neglected and is usually in a disgusting condition. The same fault may be found with most of these places in the other parks. It is extraordinary that those who take a pride in our parks should display neglect in this important particular.

Premature Fourth of July.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The small boys and fool men in the vicinity of Pine street and Grand avenue have already begun celebrating the coming Fourth of July. Those accursed firecrackers are popping away nightly. I wish Chief Creecy would begin issuing orders against them, and then see that the orders are enforced.

NOISE HATER.

The Last Nickel.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Signs attached to pay telephones in drug stores announce that the patron's nickel will be returned when the number called is busy. This promise is not kept in cases where the busy line is a branch of an office exchange. If I want to talk with an office in the City Hall, I must drop in my nickel before getting the City Hall Exchange. If then the branch line I wish to use is busy, the nickel is not returned, though no service to me has been performed. This is a rule of the company, I was informed when I questioned the central operator.

Bears and Bears.

From Life.

In the fastnesses of the Rockies two grizzlies lingered over their cigars and coffee.

"I see by the public prints," remarked the younger of them, "that Mr. Roosevelt's latest attitude distinctly favors the bears of Wall street."

"Not our Mr. Roosevelt?"

"Our Mr. Roosevelt."

"The Big Noise at Washington?"

"None other."

The elderly grizzly smoked thoughtfully for some minutes.

"Well," he said at length, "I suppose it's possible. To tell the truth, I've never held any relation with the Eastern branch of our family, not considering them quite respectable, so that I don't know much about them. Possibly they have done something to merit more consideration at the hands of Mr. Roosevelt than he is used to according us. I should like to see this new attitude of his. I wager you it is picturesque."

CALAMITY JANE

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch BY W. J. STEINIGANS.

A GIRL "ON THE SQUARE"

She Is President of a Working Girl's Club and Her Observations Are Reported for the Post-Dispatch

By Gertrude Barnum.

THE soloist sang on and on, and behind her back the other girls made faces and groaned, urging Katie, the president of the club, to relieve the situation.

Break away, Nellie," said the president to the singer, frankly; "you are all right, but you are working overtime."

Nellie winced, not so much from the president's words as from the sudden discovery that the applauding girls had been "making a show of her."

Katie is not long on tact, but she has a reputation for being "on the square."

"I like my medicine without sugar coating," she said to me. "I want to know what I'm getting. I got handed a bunch of tact by my friends once that turned out to be poison ivy. They were the kind of friends that can't bear to hurt your feelings, so they put their arms about you and stab you in the back. If anyone has got anything up their sleeve for me, all I ask is for them to whip it out and let's have a look at it."

I find that this girl keeps mental white lists and black lists where she classifies her acquaintances. She has them all down. There is the girl who "works" her chum to prepare all the sandwiches for picnics, to carry the basket, to push the swing, to do the rowing and the cleaning up after luncheon; there is the girl who "rushes" another till she has annexed that other's beau, and then "hands her a lemon;" the girl who is honey sweet all week in the shop, but at the dance on Saturday evening bows with a where-have-I-seen-that-face-before manner girls who monopolize the mirror, who hold must of the umbrella over themselves, who abscond with the box of candy.

Much that passes for tact in society is the cruelest kind of cowardly deception. Blinded by flattery, we are put through ridiculous paces; dazzled by counterfeit courtesy, we are led into pitfalls; disarmed by simulated sympathy, we expose our hearts to deep wounds. What wonder that we learn at last to appreciate those who deal with us in good faith? When our confidantes unfold our sacred hearts, with variations, to the world; when our chosen champions generously admit to our adversaries faults of which we are not guilty; when our hearts' mates deliver us sleeping to the enemy—then the poison sinks into our souls. However, no girl is justified in nursing a grievance. For which of us always gives her neighbor a square deal? Which of us manages the cards as carefully for her partner as for herself? The injustice we suffer from others is to be remembered only to insure our playing an even fairer game ourselves.

ENGLISH JOKES

An uncommonly good story is being told of Rev. W. H. White, who died recently. Early in his history, when a curate in Brighton, he was aroused from his sleep in the small hours of the morning by a sick call. He was summoned to a bad quarter of the town, and was brought to the bedside of a man who was rapidly sinking, amid surroundings of destitution and squalor. He passed away while Mr. White was offering up prayers on his behalf, and Mr. White, on rising from his knees, discovered to his astonishment that his watch had been removed from his pocket and was held tightly in the grasp of the dead man.—Westminster Gazette

DER DUM-KOPF

Fourth in the Post-Dispatch Series of Right-Here-at-Home Stories

BY IVAN WHIN.

THAT you may not laugh at me, I will begin with my defense. It is all due to heredity. My greatety-great-great grandfather owned a square mile of land on the Charles River, but because he thought the West had a great future he sold his land for 10 Spanish milled dollars and moved to Northwestern New York. Spanish milled dollars being scarce, he took deer pelts instead of coin. The square mile is a part of Boston, and is worth something like 1,000,000 United States milled dollars an acre. Of course you remember that luminous paragraph in Ray's arithmetic: "Six hundred and forty acres make one square mile."

My great-great grandfather bought some land on Manhattan Island, sight unseen, and when he saw it saw no cultivatable land—nothing but rocks. He left the rocks to my great-grandfather, who left them to my grandfather, who sold them for a share in a schooner trading to the West Indies, and the schooner was sunk on her first trip. New York's famous Central Park is located on a part of that rock, and on the remainder are the homes of New York's wealthiest citizens.

My father had some money when he came to St. Louis. He bought a house on Chouteau avenue, where the rich lived then. Had he put the money into 120 acres west of Grand avenue and north of Mill Creek Valley—oh, what's the use figuring on an if. The rich left Chouteau avenue long ago, and you know how the West End has boomed.

The first time I saw Elfreda Sellner I stared with big eyes, my mouth open and my mind emptied of everything save joy in her beauty. She was a pure blonde. Her cheeks were tinted with the warm flush which is never genuine after the eighteenth year, and her golden hair was braided in a thick, long rope down her back. Her eyes were big and blue and alive with interest in all the world about her. She was dressed in white. As she did not know the meaning of fear, had never felt unkindness and was friends with just everybody, she walked out on that little, dinky old Central Turner Hall stage—that used to be on Tenth street, near Market, you remember—as self-possessed as a Patti and sang "Auf der Alma." Patti could not sing it better, and I mean Patti in her prime. When we had nearly caved in the floor, applauding, Elfreda sang "Non e ver." You weiss those old favorites?

Then Papa Sellner sang the German equivalent of "Rocked In the Cradle of the Deep," which, as you know very well, is "Im Tiefen Keller," and Elfreda came down into the audience, where brother Rudolph met her and introduced me. Papa Sellner was getting away down in the subcellar and seeking rarer vintages at even lower depths; the audience held its breath in awe, as well it might. Elfreda had given me her hand I held it waiting till papa ceased his attempts to beat the low note record, when I would be allowed to speak and tell her how she had won my heart. Maddened by his magnificent cadenza, papa went down and down and down and lower still, while I held Elfreda's hand. At first he annoyed me and then he pleased me mightily. Do you wonder?

I was 20 then. I was checking boxes and bales into and out of the back door of Samuel C. Davis' dry goods house, and my salary was $8 a week. Perhaps I earned it.

Elfreda blushing, but unafraid, looked into my eyes and pulled so very gently to remind me that I held her hand. I smiled down on Elfreda and retained my clasp.

The last stone of the deepest pit in the wine cellar had been probed and the tumultuous applause told Papa Sellner that his effort was appreciated. Of course I couldn't talk then, nor when Papa roared that bass thing from "Saul." Naturally Elfreda developed a case of giggles and pulled hard to release her hand and naturally I held it fast. Rudolph stood by, wholly absorbed in his father's vocalization. Elfreda giggled and slapped me gently with her free hand and struggled gently and giggled till shocked persons said "Sh-h!"

At last—I don't know what I said when Papa finished; nor what she said, nor what Rudolph said, nor what Papa and Mamma Sellner said when we gathered about a table later. But I said the right things, because Elfreda and Papa and Mamma smiled on me and invited me to dinner and I went. I not only dined with them many times, but I supped with them more times and even breakfasted with them. In fact, their St. Ange avenue house became a second home for me. They accepted me as a member of the family and Elfreda's hand was often in my clasp, and whenever special happenings justified Rudolph in bestowing a kiss on her I had equal privilege.

The whole family knew I was in love with her and smiled. You see they looked upon us as children. We sang together, we sang with Papa and Mamma and Rudolph—soprano and tenor, bass contralto and baritone—all the parts. We sang German lieder, patriotic American songs, tunes of the moment, parts of operas, marched through Georgia, reflected that over all the hills there was peace—"Ueber allen Gipfeln ist Ruhe," you know—swung the "Star Spangled Banner," maundered through "Autumn Leaves," "Only a Pansy Blossom," etc., and drew crowds to the iron fence with "Trovatore," "Lucia," Bohemian Girl" and such like.

One day Papa Sellner said to me, "What are you doing down at Davises? You been there two years and you ain't got a raise yet. You quit and come with me. I make a man of you."

Did I tell you Papa Sellner was a maltster? It was a big business in those days, but to me it was degradation for Papa Sellner. I had been reared to regard the Demon Rum and all that pertained to it with especial abhorence. In my mind Papa Sellner, for all his lovableness, was no better than a brewer, and a brewer was no better than a saloonkeeper, and to be a maltster was as bad as putting liquor over the bar. All my association with Germans had not changed this part of my creed.

"No," I said, shame-faced but stubborn, "I'll stay where I am. Father wants me to learn the dry goods business."

"Ach! you want to be a counter jumper?"

"No, ours is a wholesale house."

"But you make nothing. What you learn of the business in two years?"

Dear old Sellner, he was right and I was pig headed and we quarreled and Rudolph quarreled with me and Mamma Sellner called me names and Elfreda wept. The house grew cold to me, and, in pride, I stayed away. My heart was sore, but I stayed away not only for a day or a week, but for months.

I went out on the road to sell dry goods. I became a good salesman, found other friends and formed other connections. On birthdays I remembered the Sellners with little gifts and sometimes I saw Elfreda. She was still friendly, but the old affectionate warmth was gone.

I was too proud to press my cause with her, too stiff-backed and pig-headed to seek the re-establishment of our old relations.

Yes, she married a brewer's son. I got cards and sent a gift, but was glad that I was in Kansas selling dry goods on her wedding day.

Sometimes I see her now-a-days. She is almost as pretty and just as sweet. Papa Sellner is dead; so is Rudolph. They left a million or two. Mamma Sellner lives with Elfreda. I see her, too, once in a long while.

"What a big fool you was," she says.

"Yes, mamma," I answer, "it is in the family."

"Ach, your family! When Elfreda she sing "Auf der Alma" I always think of you and I say 'Der Dum-kopf!'"

Some conductors are insolent. I had occasion lately to find fault with one on several small points, when he followed me to my seat, and inquired:

LONDON GIRLS WEAR CAPS.

A Pretty Fad Which Is Amusing the English Woman.

OLD ladies and bonnets have gone out of fashion. Prim, unmarried women with ringlets and theories have ceased to exist.

Old maids are dying out.

In a few years' time the typical old maid of our youth will rarely be seen, and a hundred years hence she will probably be dead altogether.

Our population is such that a vast number of women must always remain unmarried. There is not the slightest disgrace in that; indeed, there is often honor, because it shows a woman prefers to stand alone rather than sell herself without love to the highest bidder. Formerly those unmarried women were jeered at, sneered at—politely, maybe, but nevertheless chaffed and scoffed at, for being less attractive than their sisters, less amiable than their cousins or less worthy than their sisters-in-law.

Every year is altering the position of women; they are emerging like butterflies from the chrysalis, and, although we folk are not likely to live long enough to see them on an equal footing with men in all things, that day is approaching rapidly, and our children and their children will reap the reward of the woman pioneers.

The term "old maid" is now seldom or never heard; the expression "bachelor girl" has taken its place, and many and happy are the bachelor girls in the country today, with their independence, their little homes and their own well-arranged lives.

One sometimes comes across an ideal old maid—a woman who as a girl has helped her mother with the youngest members of the family, the helpful, kind aunt and cherished friend, whose advent in the home is a comfort and blessing to all, the peacemaker in time of quarrel, the sympathizer and helpmate in time of sickness and death. That is the ideal old maid; but she is rare.

Anything to Please.

From the New York Press.

Servant girl No. 26 was inquiring into his qualifications to become her employer. He had answered five questions with apparent satisfaction, and his hopes were running high. Then the fatal question: "How many children have you?"

"Two," he answered, reddening with his sense of guilt.

"Nothing doing," was the flippant response. "I never enter a family where there are children."

His strained patience snapped. He seized her by the arm.

"Say," he whispered hoarsely: "come with me and I'll throw the children out of the window. Nay, more, I'll divorce my wife and marry you. Anything else that you want? Just mention it, and it shall be done."

GARDNER SENDS ENVOYS ABROAD

Dave Blanton Will Go to Holland in Interest of Big Swimming Race.

ANOTHER FOR ENGLAND

No Stone Will Be Left Unturned to Make Event International Affair.

Acting on the suggestion of Russell E. Gardner, the Board of Governors of the M. A. C. have named Oct. 2 next as the date for holding the international 10-mile swim on the Mississippi River.

Mr. Gardner returned to the city from a Southern trip yesterday, and was in consultation with the M. A. C. governors for about an hour. He was authorized to go ahead with the plans for the great swim which he had previously outlined.

Arrangements have been made whereby David Blanton—a prominent M. A. C. man—will go to Holland and the Scandinavian peninsulas to solicit entries for the big swim.

Man for England.

It is also understood that a special representative will be sent to the British Isles for the same purpose.

A meeting of the promoters and supporters of the movement will shortly be held on the steam yacht Annie Russell, by the promoters of the project to appoint active committees and to promote the general interest of the swim.

Some objections have been made to calling the swim a Marathon affair, but Mr. Gardner is not concerned with the questions so much as he is with the project itself, and associating it with St. Louis and the Mississippi River.

Messrs. Gardner, Edwin W. Lee and W. R. Orthwein have been appointed an Executive Committee to take charge of this great aquatic event, and the matter could not be intrusted to better hands.

The scope of the affair will probably be enlarged by having high diving from the Eads Bridge, and also a woman's swimming championship.

SQUIRES MIXES UP WITH THOMAS

By Robert Edgren.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—I found Joe Thomas at Squires' quarters at San Rafael this morning. Joe was looking for a place to train for his coming welterweight championship fight with Twin Sullivan.

Squires was just beginning work. Britt, sweating from a run on the road, didn't care to box with him. In fact, the big Australian is having trouble in securing a sparring partner. He knocked out "Battling" Johnson, a local heavyweight, and Johnson went back to Frisco on the next train. Joe Kennedy, Jeff's old trainer, looked Squires over and decided to stick to his job mixing drinks. And none of the other big fellows had time.

So Squires has been working alone. I wanted to see him box. Taking Joe Thomas aside, I asked him if he would mind putting on the gloves with the big fellow.

"Anything to oblige," said Joe.

Jimmy Britt brought out shoes and trunks. Thomas stripped. I asked Squires if he would spar with Thomas.

"I don't mind at all," said Bill, "but I'm not much of a sparrer. If he'll fight a bit it will suit me."

I assured him that Thomas would like to "fight a bit."

TIME was called. They went at it. Thomas is probably the cleverest middleweight in the country just now. It wouldn't have been surprising if he had jabbed Squires' head off. But as they mixed it Joe dropped his right over on Bill's jaw and the Australian tore in with a right to the heart, a left feint to the body, a sudden left hook for the jaw that rocked Joes' head and almost lifted him from his feet. Thomas, with his smooth, beautiful footwork, danced in and out, feinted, jabbed and punched away, but Squires was always set. His seemingly slumsy footwork carried him swiftly in and out. He was always willing to exchange blows and at infighting he was a wonder.

Squires has enormously long, ape-like arms. His reach is greater than that of Fitzsimmons. He is not like Fitz in action, but somehow he has the same wonderful accuracy. Time and again he landed cleanly on Thomas in the mixing and the clever middleweight seemed unable to block or avoid the blows. And there was a jar in Squires' blows. It was plainly evident that he did not cut loose, yet in the third round he nearly knocked Joe down with a short left hook on the jaw. Squires smilingly apologized, but Joe smiled, too, and went on.

I am of the impression that Thomas, who lacks the curious conceit of the ordinary fighter, did not try to show off for my benefit. He did just what I asked him to do—he drew Squires out. He made Squires show his points.

AND Squires certainly looks like the real thing. A famous referee, who went to the quarters with me, said, after the third round: "This fellow is a fighter. He'll knock Burns out inside of six rounds, or I'm a poor judge."

Perhaps not. Burns is a great man of his inches, too. But unless I am mistaken, this Australian will be the surprise of the year. He is cold as ice, yet eager to fight. He is clever in an awkward way. So was Fitz. He can hit as hard as the freckled wonder. That means he can knock out any man he lands on—possibly barring the invulnerable Jeffries.

Just before boxing with Thomas, Squires had gone through 20 minutes of rope skipping. Immediately after the third hot round he jumped for the punching bag. Ten minutes of hammering, and he wound that exercise up with a full minute of slugging that shook the building.

I asked Joe Thomas for his opinion of Squires.

"HE'S the real thing," said Joe. "He has everything a fighter needs. He is fast and he can hit hard. He's cool and tricky. I know he is game. You can tell that by looking at him. Burns is a clever, rough, rugged fighter, but this fellow will make him travel. The only question is how Squires can take punishment if it is a gruelling fight. I think from his looks and the way he boxed that he can take as much as anybody. He'll fight on aggressive—that's sure."

Squires worked hard for a full hour without a rest.

"Do you always work like this so long before a fight?" I asked him.

"Why, I haven't started yet," replied Squires, soberly. "I'll work a lot harder the last two weeks."

It is plain that Mr. Squires intends to make a sure thing of this Burns fight. He is going in tooth and nail. An Australian who saw him in his native land called at the quarters.

"I'll wager my earthly possession on him if he fights Mr. Jeffries," said the antipodean.

"I'll string with you, pard," chipped in Billy Shannon.

HIS TEAM PLAYED THE BROWNS YESTERDAY

JESSE BURKETT.

THE TWO CHICAGO TEAMS HOPEFUL

High School Boys Here to Play Smith and Central Baseball Nines.

The Chicago McKinley High School baseball team arrives in St. Louis at 7 a. m. Saturday. They will be met by a delegation of Central High boys and representatives of the Post-Dispatch, which arranged the game to be played Saturday afternoon at the Stadium.

In the morning the Chicago boys will be given a workout at the Stadium. The game will be called at 3 p. m. Before the game there will be a sort of curtain raiser in the championship game between the Field School, pennant winner of the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League, and the St. Alphonsus School, pennant winner of the Post-Dispatch Parochial School Baseball League.

The Chicago team is in splendid fettle and will be accompanied by a few select rooters of the "little but O my" class. The boys have all been working hard for the game and appreciate that at least the championship of the two cities hinges on the outcome of the game.

Central Works Hard.

Out on their diamond in Forest Park Central, during the past week, has been working like beavers under the direction of Coach Walker, and the team is now in better shape than it has been during the entire season. Injuries have handicapped the Red and Black team immensely this spring, as first it was an accident to Kennet and then to Reber—both boys being the formation of the best interscholastic battery in town, that spoilt all of Walker's endeavors to get the team going. But for the present game all of the men are in grand physical shape and are infused to the brim with the characteristic Walker spirit of "do or die."

GREAT GAME ON FOR THIS WEEK

Battle Royal Expected in Trolley League Match Between Two Cities Sunday.

That the game between the Zeigenhein Bros. of East St. Louis and the local champions, the Ben Millers, is going to be a battle royal next Sunday afternoon can be seen from the fact that Manager Slack has signed St. Vrain, formerly the star twirler of the Southern League, and the once brilliant pitcher of the Chicago National League Club, and who for the past two seasons has been the mainstay of the Mexico (Mo.) Athletics. This team has become famous, owing to the fact that all the St. Louis clubs which have visited that city have met with defeat at the hands of the clever St. Vrain.

Team Looks Strong.

The addition of this player to the already strong aggregation which Manager Slack has secured makes the Zeigenheins look like a pennant winner. Manager Billy Erman, who is the dean of semi-professional baseball in this city, feels confident that the Millers will be returned a winner. His star twirler, Rehmer, is in the best possible form, and as he has yet to lose his first game, he hardly thinks that the East Siders will be the team to stop him. The contest will start promptly at 3:30 p. m., with Jack Scheller handling the indicator. The big game will be preceded by a game between the Johansens and the Grand-Leader Salvage Corps, which will be started at 1:30 p. m.

ALL IS READY FOR BIG MEET

Track at Triple A Grounds in Good Condition for the Playgrounds Events.

Everything is in readiness for the playgounds meet to be held on the Triple A grounds tomorrow afternoon. The track has been put in splendid condition and the field for the jumps has been carefully prepared, all of which should insure some neat performances both on the cinder path and in the pits. Better accommodations than has been provided in the last few years has been arranged for the large crowd that is expected to attend.

The handicapper has returned the lists for the 100, 220 dashes and 120-yard hurdle. In the 100 Carl Forline of the Y. M. C. A. has been honored with the scratch mark, and unless he is running to his best form will have a world of trouble defeating the field pitted against him. In the 220 Baumberger, running for the M. A. C., has been placed as the back man in the race and it hardly looks possible for the interscholastic star to give the distances the handicapper is expecting of him.

Frank Saradakis of the M. A. C. is giving small handicaps in the high hurdles, but as it is an open question whether a handicap is an advantage or not in this race, the fact that men are on the marks head of him should cut no figure in the result. Jack Schneider and Ev Taylor are bound to afford some keen competition in this event.

The games will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

BURGOMASTER BROKEN DOWN

Whitney's Famous Four-Year-Old Will Never Go to the Post Again.

NEW YORK, June 14.—H. P. Whitney's famous race horse, Burgomaster, a 4-year-old son of Hamburg-Hurley Burley, who was in receipt of top weight in the Suburban Handicap, will never go to the front again. Trainer John W. Rogers has announced that Burgomaster has practically broken down in his training for next week's big race at Sheepshead Bay and that as soon as Mr. Whitney had been consulted in the matter the horse will be retired to the stud. Burgomaster was the champion 2-year-old in 1905.

All Hats Off Now to Eddie Karger

Credit for yesterday's victory for the Cardinals belongs to Eddie Karger. He pitched a grand game.

Not until the ninth inning did a member of the Boston club reach third, and the anxiety as to whether he would score lasted for a few seconds only. Beaumont, the first man up for Boston in the ninth, was easily disposed of by Holly and Bates followed with a terrific triple over Lush's head in right field.

The squeeze play was attempted. Howard missed the ball and before Bates could stop Marshall was after him with the ball. Marshall must be credited with good judgment on this play. Bates naturally thought that Marshall would throw the ball to Byrne. This play would have been better for the runner, as he might have tied the score had any of the Cardinals made a wild throw or dropped the ball. Marshall would not take any chances, but just ducked his head and made for Bates. He caught the runner a few feet from third base.

Howard then ended the inning with a foul to Marshall.

In the fifth Howard and Ritchey succeeded in reaching first and second on singles, with one out. They were left on bases. In the seventh Needham followed Ritchey with another single and again they were held safe.

Three brilliant catches were made Karger caught a hot liner with his bare hand two inches above the ground. He got the ball after a good dive. Hostetter made a splendid catch near the pavilion. With the crack of the bat he turned his back to the stand. He caught the ball on the full run as the ball dropped over his head.

Burch thrilled the stands with his sensational catch in the sixth. Tenny reached first on Byrne's error and Brain caught one on the end of the bat and looked good for a triple or a homer. Burch turned as the ball was hit and made the catch with his face to the clubhouse. He stumbled and fell as he made the catch, but he held the ball and Tenny was safe in getting back to first.

Burch is the only Cardinal who could have made the catch. If Burch is able to bat around .250 or .260 he will never be without a berth in major league baseball. He is a young player and his fielding should improve with his batting and he will yet make a catch that will surpass all ever seen.

Thursday was an off day for the Browns in the schedule and they stopped at Worcester, Mass., and played an exhibition game with Jesse Burkett's champions of the New England League at Boulevard Park. They had little trouble in winning by a score of 7 to 1. Morgan and Stevens worked for McAleer and Burkett selected Frock and Knott.

Burkett was greatly pleased over the fact that his young boxman struck out Stone twice. When Stone tripled he whistled a different tune as Jess did not manage to land a safe hit. Morgan dispensed three to the Worcester champions, and they scored their only run on a scratch hit, in the seventh.

McAleer will play in Boston today and if the Browns can down Cy Young they should make a clean sweep of the four contests.

A RED HOT MEETING AT WASHINGTON

Advisory Board in Conflict With Dean Woodward Over Athletic Policy of School.

The meeting of the Advisory Board of Washington University held Wednesday witnessed one of the warmest and fiercest verbal arguments that has ever characterized one of these sessions. The question that called forth the heated discussion was the policy Washington was to pursue in her athletics next fall. The members in attendance were Dean Woodward, Profs. Langdorf and Chessin, Director of Athletics Ewerhardt and Managers English and Fullerton of the student body.

Dean Woodward, with his characteristic inflexibility of opinion on this subject, was vigorous in his demands that Washington return to the conference rules as more or less set forth in the Southwestern Association, and abandon its spring innovation of the six-month rule and allowing A. B men to represent the university.

Managers English and Fullerton were on their feet the minute the dean had finished, and with potent argument and student boldness of expression, clearly stated to the faculty head the suicidal effect such a policy would have on the Myrtle and Maroon athletics. They pointed out the futility and inconsistency of it, the inappropriateness of Washington adopting it and the invigorating and salutary effect the abandonment of it had had on spring athletics at the university.

The other members of the board apparently sided with the student view of the case, but the mysterious and wonderful power of the faculty head had its effect and the meeting decided, to the utter disgust of the student body, alumnae and disinterested followers of college sport, to adopt the quixotic rules of the conference. Hence, only five games will be played in football, only colleges that will adopt the one-year residence clause will be met, and, in fact, all the puerile outbreaks of the old big nine were embraced in toto.

Speed Alone Doesn't Make Expert

"A morning paper," said Athletic Director Bassett of the M. A. C., "recently published an article entitled 'An All-round Swimmer,' in which the writer quotes the heading, 'Expert Swimmer Drowned Attempting to Rescue Child From Small Pond,' from the report of a drowning accident, and takes exception to the application of the word 'expert' to any swimmer unable to swim a few yards sustaining a child.

"While the point is not well taken in this case, because there is nothing in the quoted report to justify the belief that inability to carry the child was responsible for the drowning, the letter leads to the fine question: What constitutes an expert swimmer?

"The great popularity attained by speed swimming in late years has caused many of us to forget that the art of natation has a far more practical and important object than the development of good racing men. As a result, we have gradually acquired the habit of classing among the expert any one fast enough to enter the competitive field, irrespective of their general watermanship.

"That the practice is fundamentally wrong it needs but a moment's reflection to show. Of what use is it for a man to be able to negotiate a short sprint in record time when a half mile swim is beyond him, and when the helping of a fellow being in danger would be an impossibility to him? Yet such men are daily honored with the title of expert.

"Who, then, does the name properly apply to?

"No better answer can be found to the question than the rules which govern the awarding of proficiency diplomas at the Brookline bath of Boston.

"This public bath, which is situated in Brookline, one of Boston's most exclusive suburbs, is an institution unique of its kind. It is supported by an endowment and by contributions, and the best people in the 'Hub' frequent it. Among the features of the place none is more popular than the holding of 'proficiency in swimming' examinations for high school boys. These examinations are optional with the boys, but anyone going through a certain program successfully is presented with a certificate issued by the School Department which attests to the holder's being an expert swimmer.

FATE OF CHONG, ALLEGED BRIBE GIVER, WITH JUDGE

Counsel for Chinese Says No Crime Was Committed by Paying Detectives for Protection Because Trap Was Set.

Judge Rodgers of the Court of General Sessions will on Friday render his decision based on the preliminary hearing given Charley Chong, alias Jung, who was charged with bribery following the payment of $75 each to Detectives McMullen and Wells, with the understanding that they were to give protection to certain gambling houses in Hop Alley in which Chong was interested.

Chong, through his attorney, ex-Gov. Johnson, pleaded that he could not have committed bribery, because the detectives were not acting in good faith. The attorney quoted from a Supreme Court decision a condemnation of detectives leading persons into the commission of an act merely to obtain evidence, saying that this practice only encouraged crime.

Chong was arrested on May 28 and taken before Chief of Detectives Smith, to whom he made a confession. He said that since the World's Fair, when he first came to St. Louis, he had been getting protection.

Detectives McMullen and Wells had made gambling burdensome for the Chinese, who were compelled to pay by attorneys' fees, he declared, and never knew when there was to be a raid. He began negotiating with the detectives on April 14, but the deal was not closed until March 27, when the details were arranged in the presence of two reporters.

The greenbacks, amounting to $150, paid to the detectives were marked for identification.

The games which were to be protected were specified. All were located in basements. Chong wanted to tell the detectives which games to raid and when to do so, and said that pleas of guilty would be entered and small fines paid. He told the detectives that the Chinese must gamble, no matter what steps were taken to prevent them.

Chong ran gambling houses in New York before coming to St. Louis. He is 50 years old and has been in the United States for 30 years.

29 CADETS ARE GRADUATED

CULVER, Ind., June 14.—The Culver Military Academy yesterday closed the most successful year in its history. A large crowd of visitors was present during the week, watching with the greatest interest the military exhibitions of the cadets. These include the regular infantry drills and, in addition, the exhibitions of rough riding given by the Black Horse Troop.

Mounted artillery and Gatling gun drills have been given, and the Engineer Corps has shown new records in the construction of spar and pontoon bridges, while the wall scaling and signaling have added variety to the work.

Tuesday night the annual cotilion was danced, and Wednesday night the final ball. The graduating exercises took place yesterday afternoon, a class of 29 men receiving diplomas. The honor men were:

Department, L. P. Coleman, Wayne, Ill.; drill, C. F. MacCarthy, Des Moines, Io.; spelling, James Forrestal Jr., St. Paul; best shot, H. F. Okie, Lost Cabin, Wyo.; cavalry, J. H. Dickens, Longmont, Colo.; elocution, W. L. Temple Jr., South Bend, Ind.; athletics, R. G. Haskins, Chicago; scholarship, C. H. Albright, Massillon, O.; physical development, M. E. Blythe, East Liverpool, O.; captain of the best-drilled company, C. C. Moore, Denver, Colo.

The following men, for excellence in military work, will be given special mention in the United States Army Register: Cadet Captains G. W. Fulks, Peoria, Ill.; C. C. Moore, Denver, Colo., and D. F. Duncan, St. Joseph, Mo.

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA

Malaria is an atmospheric poison which we unconsciously breathe into our system. The blood in its constant passage through the lungs absorbs the germs, and they destroy the rich, red corpuscles of this vital fluid and reduce it to such a weak, watery condition that it is unable to properly nourish the system, and disease gets a foothold. Then the symptoms of Malaria, such as pale, sallow complexions, weak vitality, poor appetite, deranged digestion, and perhaps chills and fever show that the trouble is affecting every part of the body. Malaria also affects the liver, producing a chronic state of biliousness, and often a long spell of fever follows when the blood becomes fully contaminated with the poison. Chronic Sores and Ulcers, boils, aches and pains, and skin affections of various kinds often result from this insidious disease if the poison is allowed to accumulate in the blood in sufficient quantities. Malaria must be removed from the system through the circulation, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. This great remedy goes down into the blood and drives out all germs, microbes and poisons, and permanently cures Malaria. S. S. S. not only cleanses the blood of the cause, but furnishes it with the healthful properties it needs, so that instead of a weak, germ-infected stream, spreading disease throughout the system, it becomes a rich, red fluid, nourishing the body and enabling it to resist disease. S. S. S. is also the greatest of all tonics, and builds up and invigorates the entire system while ridding the blood of the germs of Malaria. Persons who are suffering from Malaria will be pleased with the prompt and pleasant results produced by the use of S. S. S., and can take it with confidence because it is an absolutely safe medicine, being free from harmful minerals of any kind. AVERAGE CROPS CERTAIN, SAYS JAMES J. HILL

Northwestern Railroad Magnate Denounces Report That Grain Is Ruined.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP

People Will Eventually Grasp and Control the Lines Is Opinion of Financier.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—James J. Hill is back in town after a trip through the Northwest, in which he made a personal investigation of the crop situation.

Mr. Hill expressed his indignation at the work of the "crop killers" who, he said, had evidently been working for their own pockets all the time.

He said the stories had been greatly exaggerated and that conditions were anything but gloomy in the Northwest.

"It is true," he continued, "that the crops are somewhat late. They are on an average about two weeks behind, but they are looking well. This is particularly true of spring wheat. There has been a great deal of moisture, but it has caused an excellent condition of the ground and should produce a sterling quality of grain.

"We have had a good deal of freak weather and the spring has been a freak, but it has not been a bad growing season for wheat. Wheat grows best under cool and damp conditions.

Average Crop Certain.

"If we have a little warmth now and good weather, we will have normal crops. At least, we will have an average one, and it may turn out better than the average.

"The only thing now ahead of us of an unfavorable nature, as far as the crops are concerned, is summer frost, and if this comes it is likely to be scattered.

"I have made it a point to talk with well informed men during the last few weeks from all over the West and Northwest. Some of them look for average crops and some for bumper crops. Nearly all of them reported the ground in good condition and the outlook good for spring wheat.

"I recall particularly what Gov. Searles of North Dakota said: 'The crop outlook is good,' said he, 'in my territory, and the whole valley of the Red River looks as handsome as an onion bed.'

"I do not think the country has anything to worry about as far as the crop is concerned."

Concerning Railroad Situation.

Mr. Hill's attention was then called to the railroad situation.

"Well," said Mr. Hill, "I believe the Government will eventually be forced to lend its credit to the railroads in order to finance the necessities.

"The demands of the public are becoming more insistent all the time. It will insist that the railroads shall lay certain rails and add more cars. The railroads will add that they cannot; that their credit is exhausted; then the Government will have to step in and supply this deficiency.

"The situation might eventually lead to government ownership of railroads. If such a thing comes to pass it will mean the end of republican government."

Mr. Hill's brow knitted and his bronzed face took on a serious mien.

"This is no mere theory," he added, but an actual condition. The country is growing very rapidly. The railroads have fallen behind this tremendous impulse of development. Their credit has been greatly injured. They cannot finance a recovery. What will be the result? Who knows?

Much Money Necessary.

"In a letter to Gov. Johnson last January, I estimated that $1,100,000,000 a year for five years would be necessary to put the railroads in shape to move the traffic of the country.

"The railroads raised something like $800,000,000 during the last seven or eight months, but most of this has not gone to increase facilities. It has been used to pay off bills.

"It is no easier now for railroads to get money than a few months ago. In the Western cities, to my knowledge, $5000 lots of short-term notes of the Eastern roads have been peddled around on a 6½ to 7½ per cent basis. The railroads cannot increase their facilities under these conditions.

"I think there is a general swallowing up in business. It appeared to be inevitable last fall that it must come, and it has come, and, I think will continue. I don't believe it will hurt anybody, but it is here, nevertheless.

Producers Are Careless.

"During the last spring and winter there have been more breakages of steel rails than ever before. People are trying to make too much money. Steel plants are working too hard and trying to do too much.

"It is a fact that the old rails made when times were slower hold out the best. I do not believe this theory that the evil could be remedied by the exclusive use of the open-hearth rail. It is our experience that the open-hearth rails are more frangible than the Bessemer rails.

"I believe a little slowing down will do good all around. The pace has been too rapid. Caution and care have been cut out of the modern dictionary. Everything has been going at break-neck speed. It is time to put on the brakes."

BERLIN, June 14.—The Kaiser has approved the great scheme for the construction of a stadium in Grunewald forest on the outskirts of Berlin. It will be a model of the Greek stadium with daily Olympic games.

North End Fights Lease.

A committee was selected by the North St. Louis Business Men's Association Thursday night to appear before the Railroad Committee of the City Council Friday afternoon and oppose the execution of the proposed wharf lease to the Terminal Association. Members of the committee are J. F. O. Teller, J. H. Gundlach, H. H. Bergstone, William Wehrenmeyer and William Block.

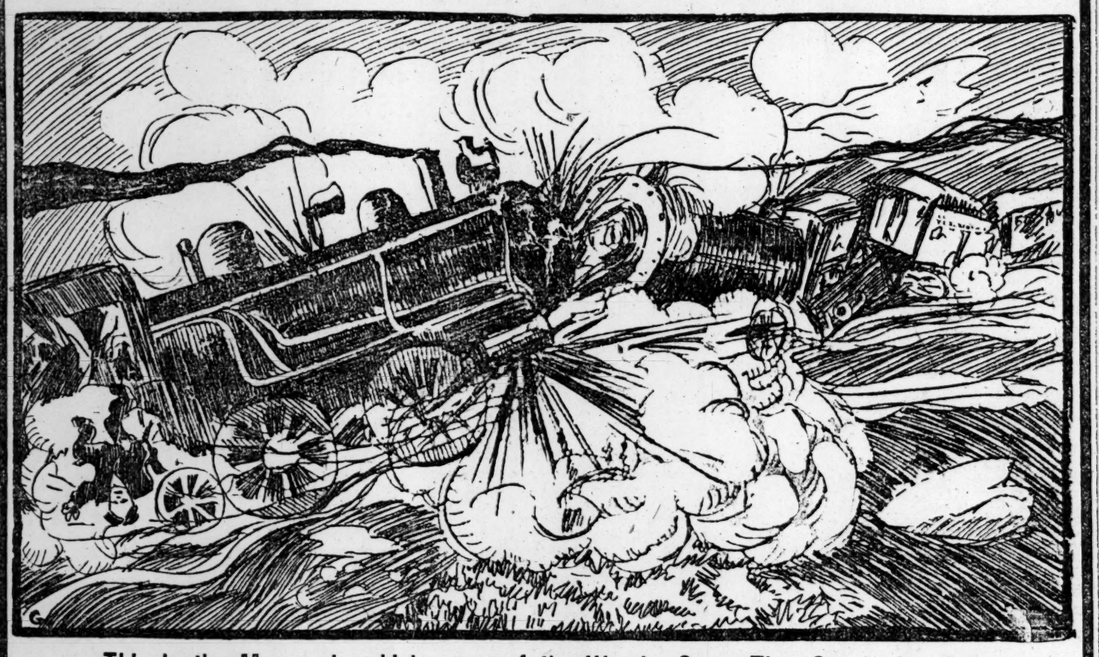

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes.

Climbed Down Water Spout.

Joseph Ray of 916 South Seventh street, who led City Hospital attendants a chase of six blocks after escaping from one of the wards, is recovering the ill effects of his climb down a water spout. Ray was recovering from a cut on his thigh. He escaped to a porch on the second floor Thursday and climbed down the water spout and over the fence. Henry Kruse, clerk of the reception room, caught him and took him back to the hospital in a grocery wagon. Ray said he wanted to go home.

HILL'S TALK AND ANTI-2-CENT FARE MARKET FACTORS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—3 p. m.—On a feeble rally the close showed stocks about 1 point over the low for the day and an average of the same amount under the opening. The total sales approximated 600,000 shares, but the session was dull from 12:30 o'clock on to the close.

NEW YORK, June 14, 12:30 p. m.—Under fair activity in trading, weak sales of nearly 400,000 shares, the decline of the market continued with almost unbroken persistency until an average low of 1½ points over the general list was shown at noon.

The Hill and Harriman issues, Reading and Atchison on the rail list and Smelter and Amalgamated Copper among the industrials were all prominent in the decline. Purchase of $1,300,000 gold for export announcement apparently had no effect.

NEW YORK, June 14, 9:30 a. m.—In the face of the opposing widespread bull and bear operations Friday, the bears won the initial points and the stock market Friday opened ¼ to ½ lower

The bears seem to have won the second point also, for the course of the market immediately after the opening was downward, so that the leading active railroad stock issues declined an average of ½ a point further, making the loss since the Thursday close 1 point.

Among the industrial stocks the decline was not so pronounced in the first half-hour, the quotations for that period reflecting only the smallest fraction of decline.

COTTON.

(Francis Bros., 214 N. Fourth st.)

ST. LOUIS, June 14.

To have exactly agreed with the closing of the New York market yesterday the Liverpool market was due to be 3½ to 5 points higher this morning. First cables, however, report opening sales at only 3 points better than yesterday, although tone was steady. At 12:15 (Liverpool time) late cables reflect a slight improvement, prices at that time being at a net gain over yesterday's finals of 4 to 5 points, or just about as due by the close in New York.

Spot business in Liverpool reasonably good, sales being 5000 bales, of which 4000 bales was American. Cotton imports, 6000, none being American; midding quoted at 7.19, an advance from yesterday of 6 points.

The opening sales in New York today were at unchanged on the new crop months to 2 points better on the old crop months. First sales as follows: July 11.93; Oct., 11.76; Dec., 11.74; Jan., ——.

Weather predictions for cotton belt: North Carolina, showers today and Saturday, with slight changes in temperature. South Carolina and Georgia, showers Friday and fair on Saturday. Florida, Alabama and Mississippi, fair on Friday, with thunderstorms on Saturday. Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas, fair.

HEAVY PRESSURE ON WHEAT PRICES

Good Weather and Disappointing Cables Cause Heavy Liquidation—Range Wide.

CLOSED TWO CENTS LOWER

Corn Closed Sharply Lower and Oats Easier—Cash Prices Lower.

Local wheat was again offered in a large volume Friday, and prices declined steadily, closing at the low point. July wheat closed 2½c lower at 88c, and September wheat 2c lower at 89½c.

Liverpool cables closed unchanged to ½d lower on spot wheat and ¼d lower on the futures. Paris closed ¼c lower on wheat and ¼c lower to ½c higher on the futures. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged to ⅝c lower. Berlin wheat 1½c higher and Budapest wheat ⅜c lower. Argentine shipments of wheat were 2,864,000 bu, against 2,832,000 bu last week and 1,696,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of wheat in Argentine is 2,136,000 bu, against 2,280,000 bu last week and 2,576,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine wheat market is weak, with a poor demand. Arrivals from the interior are fair, with the quality satisfactory.

The local market was again broad and active and the trading lively. The weather in the Northwest is very favorable and the outlook there is more favorable now. Reports from the winter belt very conflicting, some saying that good progress is being made and others that the crop is steadily deteriorating. The weather in both the spring and winter wheat territories is very good.

The good weather and the resultant lower prices in other domestic markets and the failure of Liverpool to respond to our advance of yesterday caused a weak opening on the local market, July starting out ⅜c to 1c lower at 89⅜c to 89½c, and Sept. ⅛@⅜c to ⅝@¾c lower at 91c to 90⅞c. There was a rally to 89⅞c for July and to 91¼c for September at the start, but the good demand brought out a large quantity of both long and short wheat and prices again sank, July going down to 88⅞c and September to 90⅞c. The trading was on a large scale, though consisting mostly of offerings, and prices moved nervously in a wide range.

There was another slight rally on which July option reached 89⅛c and September 90⅛c, but as was the case on several other temporary rallies, a large amount of wheat was poured into the market, and July option sank to 88⅛c and September to 89⅜c. The offerings slacked up somewhat when the low points were reached, and a large business was done late in the day at between the bottom and ½c above it. There were further reports of a large export business, large quantities of wheat being said to have been worked from the Northwest. There was a renewal of the heavy selling just before the closing gong, and July closed at the low point at 88c and September at 89½c.

The cash market was weak with a fair demand on easier price list. Primary receipts of wheat were 403,375 bu, against 346,596 bu last year and shipments were 425,800 bu, against 157,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 18,000 bu, against 26,031 bu last year and shipments were 47,430 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 314,000 bu and for the week 3,376,000 bu.

Cables closed ½d lower on spot corn and ¼d lower on the futures and this full response to our decline in corn of yesterday, together with the improved weather for corn in this country, caused a weak tone to corn prices. Trading was rather light and values at the close were lower for the day. July corn opened ⅛c lower at 50⅞c and closed at 50⅜c, and September corn opened ⅜c lower at 51¼c, went as high as 51⅜@51½c, declined to 51c and closed at 50⅞c bid.

The cash corn market was quiet and weak and prices were lower. Primary receipts of corn were 990,200 bu, against 738,850 bu last year, and shipments were 803,400 bu, against 367,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 122,100 bu, against 83,840 bu last year, and shipments were 77,870 bu. Corn clearances for the day were 142,000 bu, and the total for the past week were 783,000 bu. Argentine shipments of corn were 1,552,000 bu, against 1,211,000 bu last week and 2,619,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of corn in Argentine is 1,828,000 bu, against 1,844,000 bu last week and 3,404,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine corn market is easy with a moderate demand. Arrivals of corn from the interior are small.

Trading in oats was light and the market quiet, but prices held steady at a slight break. There were few features to the market. July option opened unchanged at 42c, was offered at 41¾c and closed with offerings at 41⅞c. September oats opened ⅜c lower at 35¼c and closed at 35⅜c bid.

The cash oats market was dull and prices somewhat lower. Primary receipts of oats were 439,815 bu, against 488,830 bu last year, and shipments were 277,915 bu, against 282,000 bu last year. Local receipts of oats were 67,200 bu, against 48,600 bu last year, and shipments were 44,640 bu. Oats clearances were 9000 bu.

Following is the Modern Miller Crop outlook: "Outside local damage from hail storms and complaints of too much rain, causing rust, winter wheat conditions are favorable. Further improvement is generally noted, this especially in Kansas and Nebraska. Wheat cutting will be general in Tennessee next week if weather is favorable. Prospects are for an unusually large crop in the Pacific Northwest."

Minneapolis stocks increased 50,000 bu for the week. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis 223, against 150 last year; Duluth 45, against 34 last year. Total, 268, against 184 last year.

LOCAL STOCK MARKET IS AGAIN DULL AND FIRM

Missouri-Lincoln Advances 1½ Points On Sales to $116 Per Share--Bond List Quiet—Traction Inactive and Unchange.

Marked dullness returned to the St. Louis stock market at the Friday forenoon session of the Stock Exchange. The dullness was in the volume of transactions, not in the line of inquiry that was put out by the commission houses for investments. Along the latter line Bank of Commerce stock was not in evidence at the forenoon session, but there was a better line out for miscellaneous shares.

Transactions in Missouri-Lincoln Trust shares were again the feature, although the volume was restricted. The selling price advanced $1.50 per share over the rate prevailing Thursday, maintaining that position at the close.

There was little doing in the bond list, but prices as quoted remained firm.

Traction stock remained firm at 68½ bid, the higher position attained Thursday, and the common stock sold at 31 easier than last rates.

CHICAGO WHEAT BREAKS UNDER HEAVY LIQUIDATION

Despite Frequent Rallies Prices Closed at Bottom, 2c Lower.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Spring-like weather in the spring wheat territory and reports of better progress being made in the winter regions, together with the disappointing Liverpool cables, were responsible for declines ranging from ⅝c to over a cent at today's opening. The pressure at the start was light, however, and from scattered sources, and under some commission houses buying prices, ranged back to about ¼@⅜c under Thursday's close, where they ruled steady for awhile. The early buying was from commission houses who sometimes act for foreigners. Trading was lively and excited all the way through, and prices were nervous. Northwestern markets were sharply lower and this encouraged the heavy selling here, which started early in the day and lasted throughout the session. There were several temporary sharp rallies, and at times there was not much wheat on sale, but the tendency was steadily downward. The Northern Grain Co., Lake, Pringle and Skitten & Ware, were good buyers late in the day and somewhat discouraged the heavy general pit selling, taking all offers of September wheat at around 92¼c for awhile.

The liquidation continued until the last, however, and prices were beaten down to 2⅛@2½c below Thursday's finish and closed practically at the low point. Cash wheat was lower, though practically the same relative levels with the futures were maintained. No. 2 red wheat sold from 91c to 93c. No. 3 red from 87 to 91c, No. 3 spring from 92c to 98c, No. 2 hard from 89½c to 91½c, No. 3 hard from 82c to 92c, No. 2 Northern from 98c to $1 and No. 3 Northern from 97c to 99c. Today's receipts of wheat were 16 cars, against 18 estimated, and 10 cars are estimated for tomorrow.

More favorable reports from practically all sections of the corn belt and easier prices abroad caused a decline of about ½c in corn early in the day. Commission houses were good buyers at the setback, however, and prices ruled regained about half the early loss, and ruled firm at the slight easiness during a good part of the day. The late weakness in wheat affected the corn market towards the last of the session and the demand let up, prices making a further decline and closing in the neighborhood of a cent lower for the day. Cash corn was in fair demand, but offerings were heavy and prices lower. No. 2 corn sold at 52¼c, No. 3 from 52c to 52½c, No. 2 white from 52¼ to 52½c, No. 3 white from 52c to 52½c, No. 3 yellow from 52c to 52¾c, and No. 3 yellow from 52c to 52¾c. Today's local receipts of corn were 786 cars, against 755 cars estimated, and estimated receipts for tomorrow are 541 cars.

FINANCIAL.

Call money opened Friday on the New York Stock Exchange at 2½ per cent.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 304-5-6 Security Building, report local money: Indorsed bills receivable, 4 to 6 months, 5½ per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 5½ to 6 per cent; other names, not so well known, 6 per cent on first-class security. Money market steady; demand for money continues good.

James J. Hill's New York interview, in which he declares that the Government must lend its credit to the railroads, naturally created wide comment in the financial district. Coming from a man of the financial standing of Mr. Hill, and taken in sincerity as the utterances were taken, the financial community at once noted the absence of any suggestion by Mr. Hill of any plan by which the Government might extend its credit—without as Mr. Hill predicted—making an end of republican government. One opinion put forward was to the effect that the Government might permit the railroads, with its own guarantee, to underwrite about one billion dollars of five, ten, fifteen and twenty-year internal waterways improvement bonds, thus making the success of the railway transportation system guarantee the improvement of the national waterways. By a variation of the rate of interest payments on the earlier maturities difficulties of presenting an attractive investment issue would be largely overcome and cash made more readily available.

As usual, preparations for the heavy mid-year interest and dividend distributions are beginning already to be reflected in a somewhat firmer money status at other centers. This causes some sympathetic hardening locally, although rates are closer to the 5½ per cent mark than they have been for some time. Comparatively little commercial paper is moving, although the supply continues plentiful enough.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings, for Friday, $9,326,969; last week, $9,784,715. Balances, for today, $912,400; last week, $949,855. Decrease clearings, $457,746; decrease balances, $37,395.

Here's a Head of Lettuce More Than 19 Inches in Diameter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—In a local market today there was a head of lettuce more than nineteen inches in diameter and weighing more than three pounds and 13 others almost as large. The shipper was able to pack only 14 in a barrel; usually there are 40.

UNDER PROMISE OF FULL PARDON TATE TELLS ALL

"Gentleman Burglar" Admits He Helped Crack Safe in Peoria.

RICH MEN IMPLICATED

Agent of Newton C. Dougherty Paid $4800 for the "Job," He Says.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PEORIA, Ill., June 14.—Under promise of immunity from further prosecution and of a pardon from the Joliet Penitentiary by Gov. Deneen, "Eddie" Tate, the "gentleman burglar," last night for the first time admitted that he helped to blow the School Board safe and stole 6000 pieces of forged scrip being held as evidence against the former Superintendent of Schools, Newton C. Dougherty.

Were Paid $4800.

Tate said he robbed the safe on the night of Jan. 26 and that he was assisted by Eddie Fay and Patsey Flaherty. He says $4800 was paid the three men by a prominent Peorian representing Dougherty.

Tate will explain in detail to the grand jury today how the affair was planned by Dougherty and his friends and how it was carried out. Until he was given absolute assurance that he had a chance for freedom he denied that he had been implicated and insisted that he did not know who did the "job."

State's Attorney Scholes is confident that sufficient corroborative evidence can be produced to warrant indictments against one and perhaps more of the wealthy Peorians who are now suspected of having had a hand in the deal.

"WORLD AWRY!" SHOUTS PROPHET

Nation's Counsellor, Seeing Things, Warns the Public of Evils Near at Hand.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—It's all off!

Prof. Gustave Meyer of Hoboken, advance agent of misfortune, says so, and he ought to know. He's picked the winners in the hard luck handicap for several seasons, with both hands tied behind his back.

If you were thinking about taking a summer vacation, forget it. Hunt up a bargain sale of tombstones and buy yourself a slab. Have your name inscribed thereon and leave a standing order with the stonecutter to attend to the other details.

With his accustomed cherrfulness the Hoboken horizon hunter, or "The Nation's Counsellor," as he modestly styles himself, says the Grim Reaper will have everything his own way for the next three months. Wall street will slide into the East River and Coney Island will yell for help.

"Starry messengers tell me," says the professor, "that this summer's remarkable calamities will occur to children, in theaters, and at summer resorts. Great fires and disaster will occur at summer hotels and amusement places."

"Some of the greatest fires in history will sweep the country," is little prophecy calculated to win the everlasting love of the insurance companies.

"I fear a hostile naval display will be in evidence," blithely predicts the sky searcher, which sounds suspiciously like an "ad" for the Jamestown show.

'Great scandals will occur to members of the press, bar and clergy," says the Hoboken seer, "and in conclusion I would say that miners, farmers, plumbers, milkmen, barbers, dressmakers and steeple climbers will be particularly unfortunate."

STRONG MEN CRY WHEN STRIKE ENDS

Ending of the Longshoremen's Trouble Marked by Scene of Great Pathos.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—There was a pathetic scene today at the meeting of longshoremen, whose strike for increased pay was declared off.

Patrick Conners, leader of the strikers, a big man who had fought determinedly for the men, broke down and wept when compelled to make the acknowledgment that the men were beaten.

There was a moment's silence, then the hall rang with cheers for the leader, while many of the men who had faced privation in an effort to win their demands, hurried to the platform, shook Conners by the hand and assured him that he had made a good fight and did the best he could.

More than twelve thousand of the original 20,000 strikers will return to work today.

BOY TAKES DEAD MOTHER'S PLACE WITH FOUR SISTERS

Dennis O'Brien, 11 Years Old, Looks After the Baby and Cooks All the Meals in Their Forlorn Cabin Home.

Tears came into the eyes of the members of the Queen's Daughters of East St. Louis Thursday afternoon as they listened to the story told by their president, Mrs. Frank J. Healy, of the efforts of Dennis O'Brien, 11 years old, to care for his four motherless sisters, ranging from Mary Ellen, aged 8, to Baby Jennie, aged 3 months. The others are Katie, 5, and Margaret, 2.

While the women made plans to send the children to the orphans' home at Glen Addie, near Belleville, next Monday, Dennis was carrying water from Cahokia Creek to the O'Brien home in Weed City, a creek island, and washing the clothes of the little girls that they may be ready to go with Mrs. Healy and Mrs. R. W. Browning to the runs.

Father Railroad Man.

Thomas O'Brien was at his work in the railroad yards.

Mary O'Brien, the mother, died April 4, at St. Mary's Hospital. Her death followed shortly after her marriage.

Through ignorance of law she and Thomas O'Brien had reared a family supposing that they were man and wife. No one knew different until a priest in preparing Mrs O'Brien for death found that she had never been married.

A license was issued and the ceremony performed some hours before she died.

After the funeral little Dennis took his mother's place in the cabin built of pieces of old freight cars and other waste wood near the Conlogue track in Weed City.

No woman came to attend the baby, but she received a bath every day and in the language of little Mary Ellen, "just never has been sick."

Her bed by day is made of two pillows placed on a board in the kitchen, so that the little chap who is both "Little Mother" and "Little Father" to his charges may attend to the cooking and mind the baby at the same time.

Cape for a Blanket.

She has a bottle which is filled regularly and she sleeps long enough to let the work of the house go on. Her wrapping blanket is an old velvet trimmed cape that was once her mother's.

She likes to nestle in Dennis' strong little arms. Her large dark blue eyes don't know much about tears and her brown hair has grown longer than most children of her age, notwithstanding the fact that it has had little brushing.

The three other girls are pretty. Dennis does not place many restrictions upon them, and since they spend much of their time upon the creek bank, their faces were not soap marked Thursday afternoon. For that reason the blue of their eyes showed like that of violets that grow in muddy creek bottoms.

Their playfellow is a spotted dog "that has no other name except Pup," according to Mary Ellen.

Dennis said: "My work hasn't been easy, because babies need a good bit of attention. I don't mind taking care of the children, but I want to go to school. I did go until mamma got sick, and I shall go again when the children have gone to the sisters.

Baby Not Christened.

"All I'll have to do then will be to keep house for papa. The baby hasn't been christened, but we call her Jennie. Neither has Maggie or Kate, but Mary Ellen and I were.

"I was born in Louisiana, Pike County, Mo."

The men in the railroad yards think well of the "Little Father" who passes them every day or two, when he goes to town for groceries.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething cures wind colic, diarrhoea.

Small Blaze, Big Scare.

A few buckets of water were sufficient to put out a fire in the second floor hallway of the three-story brick building at 1200 Franklin avenue at 10:45 p. m. Thursday, but six persons on the third floor rushed down the stairway and into the street in their night clothes. The second floor is occupied by a skirt factory and the woodwork there was scorched. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CARRIE NATION DEFIES A JUDGE

Jurist, However, Refuses to Be Impressed, and Imposes a Fine of $25.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 14. — "That Judge had the affrontery of a villain," said Carrie Nation today, after being fined $25 in a police court for disorderly conduct

She was charged with wandering into the buffet adjoining the Raleigh Hotel, informing the bartender that he was a disgrace to civilization and then attempting to disarrange the place.

When her case was called Mrs. Nation read the law to the Court, and then read the Bible until he became impatient.

"I find you guilty as charged," he said. "Have you anything to say about the sentence?"

"I am 60 years old," said Mrs. Nation, impressively, "and I have been brought into court and fined 29 times during my life. If I live long enough I may get fined 29 more times, but there is one jail I will never go to, and that is hell."

"Not in this jurisdiction," remarked the Court. "Twenty-five dollars."

Dies Far From Friends.

NEW YORK, June 14.—A young woman registered as "Mrs. Davis, Denver, Colo.," died suddenly at the Continental Hotel during the night. Hemorrhage was given as the cause of death.

Mrs. Ryan's Charity.

Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, wife of the New York traction millionaire, has so much charity work on hand that she has a private office and staff of clerks and stenographers. She has given away about $4,000,000 in building hospitals, convents and churches.
